PEKIN is said to be in a "near-chaos condition," and "Japan is gravely concerned," for good reasons.

If China goes to pieces and cannot buy or sell goods, that will be bad for business, Japanese and European.

China might be beaten into order sufficient for business purposes. But there are the Bolsheviki.

Japan fears that Bolshevism may back the Chinese agitation, and remembering that the allied nations of Europe combined were unable to coerce Russia, Japan would not care to undertake that job alone.

EUGENE C. MAY, highly educated, has left this earth in disgust. Years ago he learned the location of a schooner sunk in a few fathoms of water on its way from the Australian gold fields with $10,000,000 in gold on board.

Trying to get that gold he fitted out two expeditions, spent all he had, more than $100,000, failed. He opened the veins in his wrists, died, and now his ashes will be scattered on the surface of the Pacific ocean above the $10,000,000 in gold that he did not get. A good text for sermons.

A BRITISH scientist makes this most important announcement concerning cancer. He can detect, by analysis of a few drops of the patient's blood, the presence of cancer in its early stages. Cancer located and treated promptly in the beginning can be permanently eradicated. Cancers that kill are those ignored too long. Report any strange growth to your doctor.

GEN. BRUSSILOFF, dead yesterday, led Russia's successful drive against Austria, capturing 300,000 Austrians in one week.

The United States got much excited about that glorious victory and lent fifty million dollars to Russia. One year later Brussiloff was helping others to force the czar off the throne, and our Russian bonds were worth so much a pound as waste paper. So it goes, in war especially, with our kind of statesmen.

GIUSEPPE BOGGIANO was happy when he earned small wages as a day laborer in New York, 40 years ago. Now, owner of millions, he has hanged himself in the park of his chateau on Lake Como. His last message was, "I have discovered that money does not give happiness."

That may comfort the poor, but, unfortunately, poverty does not give happiness either. What does give happi-

WOMEN VICTIMS

Tragedy Follows Dispute Over Horse Stealing Charge.

PLACERVILLE, Calif., Mar. 19.—Seven persons, including himself, five women and a man, are dead today because John M. Goins, 48-year-old Stockton cripple, driven mad by real and fancied wrongs, started out to avenge them with a pistol.

Sends Bullet Into Own Brain.

Police, following the trail taken by the slayer as he wiped out those concerned in his family troubles, a dispute over a charge of horse stealing and the failure of a law suit against a railroad company for the loss of his leg, caught up with him near here just as he sent a bullet into his own brain while fleeing in an automobile along a mountain road.

Goins' victims were:

Mrs. George F. McNoble, prominent Stockton club woman, wife of a former president of the California Bar association and former San Joaquin district attorney.

Mrs. Florence Podesta Goins, the slayer's wife.

Mrs. Minnie Podesta Clark, her sister.

Alexander Marengo, 60, wealhty Galt, Cal., vineyardist, who had charged Goins with stealing a horse a few years ago.

Mrs. Matilda Marengo, his wife.

Mrs. Mary Dutra, the Marengo's daughter.

Telephoning his wife and her sister, who were at their father's ranch just north of Stockton that he was coming, Goins arrived as they were preparing a meal for the farmhands. After exchanging a few words, Goins drew his Suit of Attorney G. Jay Clark of East Liverpool against Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville, for $1,885, alleged to be due from a partnership business which the two lawyers conducted about six years ago, is being heard in municipal court today.

Evidence is being heard by three arbiters, appointed by Judge Hanley. They are Attorneys Frank Grosshans, R. G. Thompson and W. F. Lones.

Attorneys Charles Boyd and W. S. Stevenson are representing Clark, while Attorney George T. Farrell, Lisbon, is counsel for O'Grady. Clark and O'Grady were on the witness stand this morning. A half dozen or more witnesses were to be examined this afternoon.

Three Auto Drivers Freed After Judge Hanley Warns Them

Kress Cronin, George Booth and Vincent McGeehan, motorists, arrested by Patrolman Norman McFarland at the corner of Sixth street and Broadway, last evening, upon charges of fast and reckless driving, were dismissed by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley this morning. They were warned against speeding at street intersections.

Wilbur Heckathorn, who was arrested near the C. & P. freight station early yesterday morning upon a charge of intoxication, was fined $50 and costs and committed to the county jail by Judge Hanley today. At the rate of $1.50 per day, Heckathorn will be in jail for 33 days.

Gus Woessner filed an action today seeking damages from Mrs. Jane Doe, nee Yawn. He charges the defendant has occupied a dwelling at 204 West Third street without a lease. Attorney G. S. Thompson is counsel for Woessner.

City Civil Service Board to Organize At Meeting Today

W. T. Anderson, East End coal dealer, probably will be elected chairman of the civil service commission at a reorganization meeting in the office of Solicitor Hoover in municipal court headquarters this afternoon. Anderson was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum this year to succeed T. A. McNicol, whose term of office expired.

Edward L. Green, East End grocer, will be named vice chairman while Willis Davidson, porcelain manufacturer, who is filling out the unexpired term of E. L. Bradfield, will be chosen secretary.

The board is expected to arrange for police and fire department examinations.

TWO MEN HELD ON GRAVE COUNT

Charles Weiss, 38, Wellsville railroader and Howard Woodruff, 22, of East Liverpool, are being held in jail at Lisbon pending a hearing before Judge Lodge Riddle next Tuesday upon charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 18-year-old girl, who is also being held at Lisbon. The men were arrested on warrants issued by Sheriff George Wright in probate court at Lisbon following disclosures alleged to have been made by the girl. Pleas of not guilty were entered, and bonds were fixed at $500 each.

Boys, Who Used Sixth Building Room Over Week-end, Deny Utility Man's Charge of Breaking and Entering.

Thirteen boys, ranging from 11 to 17 years of age, who are alleged to have entered the Sixth street school on Saturday and Sunday February 27 and 28, to play basketball were "on the carpet" before the board of education last evening.

The lads denied having forced an entrance into the school, asserting that they had entered through one of the fire escape doors which had been left unlocked. They were discovered in the building by school janitor who reported to Joseph Hughes, utility man for the board.

According to first reports, entrance was effected by smashing a window in the cellar. The boys declared they knew nothing of the broken glass. They explained that the janitor had permitted them to use the school room, fitted for basketball purposes, while he was in the building on Saturdays.

Four of the boys attend the Sixth street school, others are enrolled in the Washington building, while one is in high school, one in continuation school and two others are not pupils. Fifteen lads are alleged to have visited the school but only 13 of them appeared before the board.

After a two-hour inquiry, the lads were dismissed with a warning.

Approval of the budget for 1926, fixing the expenses of the schools at $342,405 was voted by the board. While this amount has been set aside as the approximate needs the year, not more than $310,000 will be derived from tax settlements, according to Emmett J. Gaston, secretary -treasurer.

Gaston reported that school board funds in all probability, would be exhausted during the early part of May and that it would be necessary to borrow money to meet the May payroll pending the receipt of June taxes. In the budget for the year, the board set aside $1,000 for interest. Final settlement of taxes for the first half of the year has not yet been made.

The board also discussed the employment of a dumpmaster at Patterson Field, but action was deferred pending a conference with city council regarding the salary fund. Three applications for the place have been filed.

SOLONS FROWN ON PROPOSAL FOR ANOTHER COURT CLERK

Ordinance Pigeon-holed After Title is Read.

HIT CITY JOB

Vote, 4 to 2, Against Civil Service Board Secretaryship.

Apparently opposed to the creation of additional officers, the city council last night killed two ordinances—one providing for the appointment of a deputy clerk of the municipal court and another the establishment of the secretaryship of the civil service commission.

Decisive action was taken on the municipal court proposed by the solons who buried a motion to consider it under an avalanche of noes after A. Earl Edwards, acting council clerk, had read the title of the measure. Hughes and Farrall supported the ordinance for the civil service clerkship, while Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole and Herrington opposed it. Councilman Hayes was absent.

Solon Hughes, in speaking on the civil service clerkship, said that Mayor Ralph C. Benedum had expressed himself in favor of it on the ground that in most cities of the state boards had a non-member clerk.

There was no discussion on the court clerkship ordinance which gave the judge the power of appointment.

Claybourne Avenue Dispute.

Greater part of the session was taken up by discussion of the Claybourne avenue dispute which has been before council for the past 11 months. Both sides were represented. Members of council who visited the street prior to the meeting spoke of conditions which fail to permit egress to homes.

Following a one-hour debate, it was moved by Farrall that action be deferred for two weeks to enable council to determine what material should be used on the improvement of Fourth street. Service-Safety Director Moore said that in the event bids for this street and St. Clair avenue do not exceed estimates, he believed enough money would be left out of a proposed $20,000 bond issue to carry out the work.

D. F. Nellis, representing property owners on the south side of Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, presented a petition, signed by five taxpayers, asking that the street be improved. It was brought out in discussion that the lone property owner on the opposite side of the street, with an equal frontage, was opposed

WHITE HOUSE MOURNERS MOTOR FROM WOODSTOCK TO BRIDGEWATER

Executive Goes Into Little Parlor Where he Gazes in Dry-eyed Sorrow at Body, While Mrs. Coolidge Stands on Other Side, Tears Welling Her Eyes—Services Arranged.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—President Coolidge arrived here at his snowbound homestead this morning just 12 hours too late to see his aged father, Col. John C. Coolidge.

Tomorrow, at 2 o'clock, he will follow his father to the little hillside burial ground where, just 20 months ago, he buried his younger son, Calvin, Jr.

The rushed journey from Washington by special train, automobile and bob sled had been in vain, for at midnight, while still aboard the train, he had been apprised of his father's death.

The president arrived here to find virtually all funeral arrangements completed. In fact, it was the colonel himself, anticipating death, who had engaged the undertaker, the minister, the grave digger, and who had erected a stone in the family plot lacking only the exact date of death. The neighbors even had received personal invitations from the lips of the dying man to be present at the home across the road for the final service.

This fatalistic calm surprised neither the president nor the natives of this little cross road hamlet.

FOR SECOND TIME IN 20 MONTHS, DEATH BECKONS IN COOLIDGE FAMILY

In Summer of 1924, President Was Called to His Ancestral Home to Bury His Youngest Son.

ABOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—For the second time in 20 months, President Coolidge went to his ancestral home at Plymouth this morning to bury a loved one.

In the summer of 1924, just before his greatest national triumph, it was his younger son, Calvin, Jr., today it was his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, who died late last night while the president was racing by train to his bedside.

The presidential special arrived at Woodstock, Vermont, at 6:40 a. m. The president and Mrs. Coolidge immediately went to a room engaged for them in the Woodstock Inn. Later they emerged and went to the dining room for breakfast.

Receives Fateful News at Midnight.

The distance from Woodstock to Plymouth is about 16 miles. It will be covered by the party from the White House partly by automobile and partly by sleigh.

The road from Woodstock to Plymouth was shut off from other traffic in order to hasten the presidential's arrival at the Coolidge home.

President Coolidge's race by special train from Washington was in vain. At midnight a telegram from his secretary in Washington, Everett Sanders, advised him that his father has passed away quietly at 10:41 p. m., his least hope of seeing his father, desperately ill for the last two weks, alive had gone.

Party of Mourners.

The party of mourners from the White House was small. Accompanying the president only were Mrs. Coolidge, Attorney General Sargent and Major General J. F. Coupal, White House physician and John Coolidge, son of the president, who boarded the train at Northampton, Mass., in the small hours of the morning.

The fateful message containing news of his father's death was delivered to President Coolidge at 11:50 p. m., when the special paused at Bridgeport, Conn. The secret service operative, James Haley, who accepted the telegram, knocked at the door of the president's compartment, expecting to awaken him. Instead he found him fully clothed and apparently awaiting just such word, probably as the result of some premonition.

CHIEFTAIN'S SON FLAGS PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO VERMONT

Called From Bed in Rooming House at Amherst by Landlady, he is Informed of Grandfather's Death.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 19.—John Coolidge, son of the president, an Amherst student, by telephone early today, succeeded in flagging the presidential special enroute to Vermont.

Arriving here by trolley car after being informed of his grandfather's death by a Springfield newspaper, young Coolidge discovered that the Washington special was not scheduled to stop here.

John got the train dispatcher at Springfield on the telephone and made arrangements to have the train halt here. From midnight to 8 a. m. the student waited on the station platform until the special arrived and took him aboard.

Called from bed in his rooming house at Amherst by his landlady, Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey, John Coolidge went to the telephone and was informed of the passing of his grandfather by a Springfield newspaperman.

"That's too bad, but thank you very much," said John.

Arriving here by trolley car he discovered that the presidential special would not stop. By telephone, John learned that the train would stop at Springfield and he made all arrangements with the Boston and Maine railroad train dispatcher there.

For three hours, in the cold of the early morning, young John paced the Northampton station railroad platform, entering the station now and then to get warm. The special arrived at 3 a. m., and took John aboard.

Maharajah's Kitchens Form Principal Item Of Nation's Budget

BOMBAY — Some light on the yearly budget of Indian mahahajahs is furnished by an official state department of Alwar, who, for the first time, has revealed the items of the Alwar budget to the outside world.

Of a total revenue of approximately $1,200,000, the privy purse of the maharajah of the state amounts to nearly $600,000. Of this sum practically $80,000 represents the cost of the state automobiles, while another $60,000 is expended upon their garage and upkeep.

Education accounts for the magnificent sum of about $30,000, or $10,000 less than the cost of the upkeep of the maharajah's kitchens.

The present maharajah is one of the committee of the chamber of princes of India, and claims to be descended from the old historical rulers of India—the Pandavas.

Death from epidemics since the World war has been practically nil.

"She Has Style"—

If that is said of you, you may cheerfully forego any other praise.

It is so easy to be pretty. Almost anyone with a little cleverness can be called good looking. But style makes one woman stand out above all others in a large gathering—it makes her distinctive.

The secret of style is correct corseting—the poise and carriage that you get from Binner girdles and corsets.

You know how exasperating it is to get what you think is just the right girdle—only to find after you have worn it a few times that it has lost its own lines and taken on yours. And yet how many girdles and corsets do that very thing.

Binner girdles never lose their shape, no matter how long you wear them. They are skillfully made of fine materials and until the very end of their long life they will retain the graceful lines they had when you first put them on.

The model pictured above is a girdle. We have many other styles—one for every figure. Let our Corsetiere fit you with the one you should have.

Priced from $4.50 to $9.75.

New! Cock-Croft Silk Dress Patterns

For the woman who is ever lured by something different we are showing these new Cock-Croft silk dress patterns.

Included with pattern is a chart which explains how to make these dresses in various sizes.

The "Rose Lattice" pattern comes in bluette, tan and navy.

"Cluny" pattern in bluette, navy and tan and red on black.

Smartest women are wearing the "Pompadour" pattern. In this distinguished model for older women are the long sleeves of the prevailing mode. "Pompadour" is in navy, black, tan, cocoa and red. Each pattern priced at $12.75.

Fluted ruffles, accordion pleats, metallic ribbon, corded effects, etc., are used as trimming features. Long or short sleeves. Sizes 7 to 14. Priced from $5.75 to $16.75.

The Separate Coat is a Smart Necessity

The separate coat is necessary both for warmth and smartness and when it is made of any one of the lovely fabrics of the season, it is delightfully decorative, in addition.

You cannot realize how lovely spring coats can be until you see these. For they have captured the freshness of springtime, expressing it in terms of soft woolens and wondrous colors.

You may choose a severely tailored coat or a coat with flares and frills in the form of fur and embroidery.

Novelty plaids, checks and mixtures are used in the mannish coats while the dress coats are developed of twill cord, twill sheen and Poiret sheen. Flared, straight or cape models in all the new shades. Fur trimmed or plain.

ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE RUINED AERIAL PHOTO BUSINESS IN EAST

NEW YORK, March 15.—The recent anthracite coal strike, which made it necessary for New York to rescind ordinances against use of soft coal, has completely ruined the aerial photograph business.

A year ago, when a lump of soft coal couldn't be found on Manhattan with a search warrant, aerial photographers were able to make pictures easily from 8,000 to 10,000 feet in the air. A photographer who tried it the other day, flew within 1,000 feet of the ground before he could pick out such a conspicuous landmark as the Woolworth building, and the pictures he took looked like they had been snapped in a tunnel.

Q. How far away can an airplane be seen? M. H. H.

A. An airplane can be seen under favorable conditions from about 10,000 to 15,000 feet.

Q. I would like to know whether Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen had ever played tennis against each other before this year? L. H. E.

A. They had never met until their recent match in which Helen Wills was defeated.

Q. Is the flame of an acetylene torch injurious to the eyes because it is bright or because of gas or other reason? A. F. E.

A. The flame of an acetylene torch is injurious to the eye in proportion to its brightness. If it is so bright that on looking at it and then winking the eyes an outline of the flame can be seen on the retina, goggles should be worn. The effect is the same as that of looking directly at the sun. The parts of the retina affected are apt to be permanently injured.

Prayer In Chicago

Several hundred Chicago people ary trying to abolish 30 roadhouses of dubious repute in southern suburbs. The novel thing about their effort is the method. They are invoking neither law nor publicity, but only prayer.

To the amazement of scoffers, they have been meeting with considerable success. Ten days after the campaign began, three of the resorts had quit, and in token of victory prayer meetings were being held in their abandoned parlors instead of the accustomed revelry.

Day and night the siege continues. "We all have faith," says one of the leaders, a reformed gambling house keeper. Faith is mighty, and "the prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

Secular help, too, is not to be despised. Business men, be it observed, are helping in the crusade, mingling with their moral satisfaction the thrifty assurance that decency is better for business than indecency.

Coffee at Fires

The Allentown branch of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's association has just started something which should win them national renown and the high compliment of imitation. These fire-fighting women are going to equip and operate several motorized coffee wagons which will always follow the engine and the hook-and-ladder truck and will supply hot coffee to the struggling firemen.

The coffee wagon may not always be needed. Trailing the fire department to answer a false alarm or when putting out a small fire on a hot summer day, the coffee service may appear foolish and useless. But used with judgment, it should be a very fine thing. Everyone knows the bracing effect of coffee taken during such a protracted session of hard work as firemen must go through at big conflagrations.

Religious Rivalry

President Lowell, of Harvard, explains poor attendance at churches by decrease in hostility among various sects.

"Man is a combative animal," he says, "and the recent increase in co-operation between different denominations has caused many church followers to lose interest."

He suggests that rivalry among churches is just as necessary to keep up church membership as intercollegiate football games to bring students to college.

Some of us, however, are not quite so sure about the ultimate value of college athletics nowadays, even when their advertising value is granted. And surely religion, whose professed ideal has always been peace and harmony among men, is in an unfortunate situation if it can thrive only on church warfare.

A Few More Booms Wanted

Some Britishers who have witnessed the working of the Florida boom at first hand are said to be advocating the start of similar booms in some of the Dominions to attract settlers. Canada, Australia and South Africa could use a lot of enterprising British immigrants, and Great Britain could spare them.

The present slackness in British migration seems to result from the absence of the pioneer spirit in the British Isles and the selection insisted on by the Dominions. The latter require that prospective immigrants be thoroughly inspected and approved before they leave the home land.

A boom, it is thought, would awaken the energetic, pioneer spirit and act as a spur to many groups that have contemplated going overseas but haven't quite worked themselves up to taking the necessary steps.

Booms started the development of many sections of our great west and a boom has worked wonders for Florida. Maybe our British admirers are right in wanting to stir up a few booms for themselves.

Speculative Education

Wellesley college has a class in financial organization, and that class has been studying finance in practice as well as theory. It has a supply of stage money to operate with. Recently the girl students have been using that money to speculate in stocks.

As a result of applying their book learning to the stock exchange, they are said to have turned a fund of $25,000 into $38,000 within a short period.

All this, of course, is merely make-believe speculation. But such success may encourage the young ladies to take whatever honest-to-goodness money they can get hold of and try playing the game in earnest. The method is just about the same in either case. And there would be more interest in "playing the market" with hard cash.

It will jar some of the old-timers to learn that stock speculation can be learned at college. Hard-boiled financiers of the antique school may begin to suspect that, after all, education pays.

Wait till those girls get into Wall Street! Something it going to happen to the street—or to them.

"Elevating the feet stimulates the brain," says a physician; and so another crude American habit is justified.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 19—Thoughts while strolling: The first lute of spring—a hurdy gurdy. Charles K. After-the-Ball Harris, the song writer. What ever became of Billie (Single) Clifford? The constant parade. Beggars at the heels of life. And riches to be diced away in a night.

A church bell peels. And an auto back-fires. The clatter of lunch rooms where millions eat half a dish, smoke a cigarette and run. A coiffure parlor heralds: "The Beatrice Lillie Bob." Another block-long electric sign. Proclaiming the virtues of lingerie.

Skyscraper skeletons of steel. And the incessant rat-atat-tat of hammers. Achmed Abdullah, a musical comedy monocled crown prince in real life. Who wins French academy author prizes. And smokes a Turkish pipe on a Greenwich Village fire escape.

Stodgy women in sables. Glossy, pointed nails concealing square finger ends. Pudgy men trying to hide organic instincts behind fashionable clothes. The dead docility of the jaded. Always seeking new diversions and new friends.

George W. Coxey, the newsboy who made a fortune selling insurance. The smiling cop at 50th and 5th avenue. And the one at 58th street the taxi drivers call "Old Ironsides." But he's popular with those pedestrians who have survived.

The flappers are wearing the cake eaters' coon-skin coats. A white puppy dragging a big Persian cat around a dog shop window. And the sidewalk is jammed. The tall thin man with the russet face who has made a fortune selling toy balloons at county fairs.

What becomes of waffle shope in the summer time? Probably go where flies go in the winter. A little shop girl cries: "I got a raise, thank heavens!" Gaily bedecked ladies facing the blunt truth that New York is not thrilling them at all.

In the very heart of the Great White Way, where there is more electric light to the square inch than any place in the world, there is a man who makes a living decorating candles. He gilds and paints them for a concern that disposes of them to tea rooms and studio apartments.

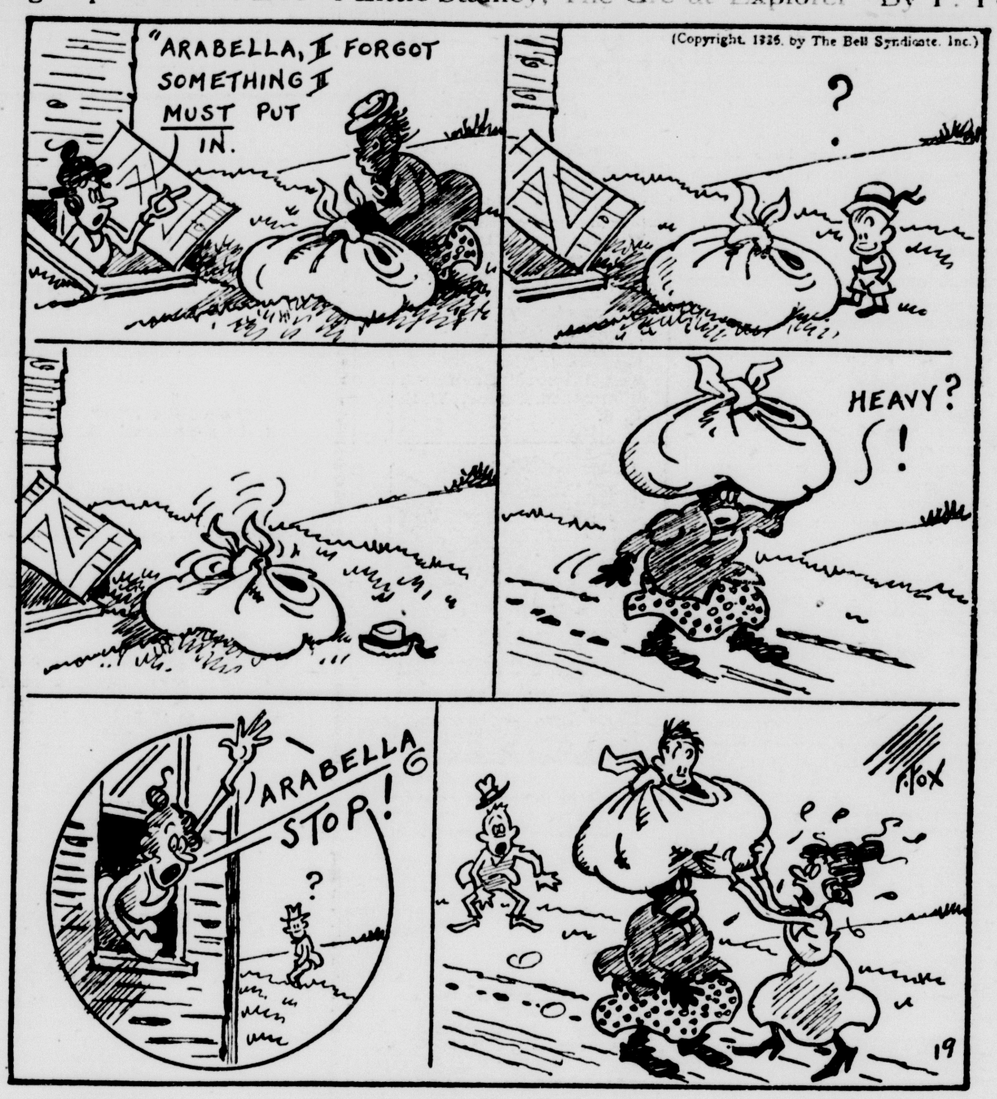

I have a memory of my last view of the late Frank Munsey, who died several months ago. It was around midnight, and he was chatting with a clerk in the lobby of the hotel where I live. He had been to the play and was in full evening dress. Mr. Munsey struck me as being one of the loneliest men in New York. He was a bachelor and strictly temperate, and outside of his vast business affairs he held little interest. I have often seen him unbend, through sheer loneliness I believe, to talk to elevator boys and barbers.

At times a few highly esteemed readers become annoyed with me. I share their annoyance. Their special complaint seems to be if I do not like New York why the Carrie Nation don't I bow out. The reason is chiefly because outside of Paris there is no city where I would rather live. It is my daily chore to picture it as I see it—the high lights and shadows. Broadway is one of the most interesting streets in the universe. It always offers another side to every picture. For instance! Two stage stars married notorious men—each with a prison record. Broadway smiled its cynical smile. Yet both are supremely happy, and those who know say the marriages will endure.

Very few theatrical attractions save musical comedy have orchestras these days, and those that do seem to offer musicians who have merely come in to get out of the cold and set up their instruments to practise awhile. In the Gay Nineties the opening overture was an event.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Another War Memorial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—Washington is at last to have a memorial to those of her sons who contributed their share to making the world safe for democracy. While it may seem that perhaps the national capital has been a little slow in erecting such a memorial it is believed that the one proposed will prove that the waiting has been well worth while.

Memorials to soldiers and sailors in the World war have sprang up all over the country. Some of the tiniest villages have them. They have taken many forms and it is quite true that in some cases the sentiment is more to be admired than the art or architecture.

Washington has realized that any memorial it would erect must conform to the general plan of making this one of the most beautiful cities in the world. To that end it could not afford hastily to put up a monument which had not been given careful consideration by experts.

The design finall selected is the work of Frederick H. Brooke, who is particularly well qualified for such a commission since he is a graduate of L'Ecole Beaux Arts, with special training in classic architecture. Associated with Mr. Brooks are two well known Washington architects, Nathan Wyeth and Horace W. Peaslee, the former also a graduate of L'Ecole Beaux Arts.

In 1924 congress appointed a memorial commission of prominent Washington citizens and it is this commission which has had charge of all arrangements. Under its directions a campaign for popular subscriptions will be inaugurated during the first week in April. The amount to be raised is $200,000 and it is hoped that subscriptions will be sent in from those in all walks of life, in view of the fact that those serving during the war were not confined to one class.

A Temple of White Marble.

The memorial is in the form of a Doric temple of white marble. The Fine Arts Commission has chosen for its site a grove of beautiful trees, a short distance due south of the center of the reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial. In such surroundings the beauty of the temple will be greatly enhanced. During the summer the temple will be used for the band concerts which are held by the military bands. Heretofore these concerts in Potomac Park have been held in the old wooden band stand at the east end of the polo grounds.

It is proposed that upon the marble ceiling of the dome of the temple will be inscribed the names of the 26S sons of the National Capital who in serving their country made the supreme sacrifice. Within the cornerstone are to rest the names of all the district boys who served.

A model of the memorial has been placed on display in the window of a large department store and this shows to the minutest detail just how it will look when it is completed. Even the surroundings with miniature trees and marble benches are included. In the dome have been inscribed in miniature more than 200 names.

This war memorial will have distinguished neighbors. It is close to the incomparable Lincoln Memorial and not far from the beautiful Pan-American Union building. In the springtime it will vie with the much-talked-up and many-times-written-about and photographed Japanese cherry blossoms for the attention of the thousands of visitors who journey to Washington from all parts of the country at the time when it is expected that these blossoms will be at their height.

The memorial commission says that every effort has been made to attain in the plans for the memorial a combination of beauty and dignity which shall at once be appropriate, useful

Cleveland Rail Men Ask Thompson to Run for Governor

Four Thousand Workers Petition Colonel to Seek Republican Nomination at August Primary.

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Four thousand railroad workers, living in Cleveland and vicinity, last night petitioned Col. Carmi A. Thompson to announce himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

The petition was presented by a delegation made up of Charles H. Kibler, Sam D. Foster, P. R. Reed, Mrs. E. M. Reed, Martin Hart and W. A. Fleet. The chairman of the delegation, Sam D. Foster, voiced, on behalf of the petitioners their "disappointment" with the administration of Governor Donahey and declared their confidence in the ability of Col. Thompson to solve the problems confronting the state government. Foster said to Thompson:

"It is our mission and honor to present to you a petition signed by four thousand men and women in various branches of the steam railroad industry, who earnestly request you to announce yourself as a candidate for the governorship of Ohio.

"The signers of this petition all are men and women who earn their livelihood in their occupations as engineers, firemen, shopmen, conductors, switchmen, brakemen and clerks.

"These men and women have authorized us, as their spokesmen, to say to you that they are moved to make this request because they recognize the important influence with the administration of the state's affairs has, not only on the condition of their own industry, but on all industries.

"Further, they recognize that their own well-being, and the welfare of their wives and children—their ability to earn a living wage and maintain such a standard of living as becomes American citizens—are affected in no small degree by the wisdom, the judgment and the force with which the state government is guided, expressed and executed.

"They have looked to the Capitol at Columbus for several years with hope, but disappointment. They have expected, but in vain, relief from the burden of taxation which fall so oppressive on the wage-earner and home-owner; more efficient organization of the executive branches of the government, such as that charged with the building and maintaining of highways; more intelligent and sympathetic direction of our state institutional program for dealing with unfortunates, such as defective children and the insane. They have expected, but without realization, to see the materialization of a program which would restore the agricultural industry of the state, and thus reduce the cost of living in the cities and towns. And they have expected, but without seeing anything acomplished, that steps would be taken to enable the fining industry of the state to enjoy its former prosperity, thus providing employment for thousands and saving from the pangs of starvation.

"These are only some of the problems which the signers of this petition see as confronting the state government. They believe that the only hope for their solution rests in the election to the governorship of a man qualified by training, experience and achievement to meet them squarely, grapple with them understandingly, and settle them vigorously. They believe, too, that if such a man were a gubernatorial nominee, the people not only would support him but would assure him of a majority in the legislative branch of the government which would enable him to carry his program to satisfactory completion.

"And, further, they have instructed us to say to you, Carmi Thompson that they, after full consideration and deliberation, believe that you are this man—and that they urge you to offer your name as a candidate for the greatest trust and responsibility this state can bestow."

Col. Thompson was plaintly surprised by presentation of the petition. He expressed his appreciation of the confidence in him which the petitioners displayed, and told the delegation that he regarded it as a rich reward for the many years he has engaged in public service.

"The question of presenting myself for the governorship at the coming primary," he said, "has been given my most serious consideration; and in making a decision, I assure you, I am certain to be influenced in no small degree by your petition."

In China the day is divided into 12 two-hour periods.

Miss Maxine Wilson In Wooster College Color Day Pageant

Miss Maxine Wilson, 509 John street, will be in the dance of the Jewels, a feature of the pageant. "The Treasure Chest," which will be staged by a student cast of 175 in honor of Miss Letitia Brown, of Ellwood City, Pa., who will be crowned queen of May at the twenty-second annual Color Day celebration at Wooster college on May 15.

The pageant was written by Miss Margaret Holley, of Rochester, N. Y. Pirates, when dragging a treasure chest into a woods, are frightened away by a bridal party. Eric and Griselle find the chest, and while they are gone for help the treasures come out and dance in the woods. They return to the chest when the pirates come back and the chest is gone when Eric and his friends return. They then make merry with the May Pole Dance to end the pageant.

The pageant will be staged in Severance stadium on the football field in front of Wooster's new $50,000 football bleachers. With portable bleachers, Wooster can handle a crowd of 8,000.

PRETTY BANK CLERK FACES FORGERY TRIAL

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, Midland, on Trial at Beaver.

JURY IS CHOSEN

Woman is Charged With Embezzlement of $5,200.

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, pretty 25-year old bookkeeper at the Midland Savings & Trust company, was placed on trial before Judge William McConnell in circuit court at Beaver, Pa., yesterday upon charges of forgery and embezzlement.

Practically all of the forenoon session was occupied in the selection of a jury. The jury, consisting of seven men and five women, is as follows:

Harry D. Woods, Pulaski township; Fred Whittle, Pulaski township; George Hays, Aliquippa; Lila McElhaney, Brighton township; John Baxter, North Sewickley township; Sarah Martin, Ambridge; Mabel Corfield, Rochester; Jennie Riddings, West Mayfield; Mae Howarth, Beaver Falls; Bernice Kerr, South Heights; John L. Love, Freedom and Luella M. Simpson, Woodlawn.

Mrs. Camwell, who came to Beaver about a year ago from Butler, is alleged to have embezzled approximately $5,200 of the Midland school savings funds. She was arrested following an examination of the bank's books by officials of the state banking department.

The defendant, who is at liberty under $5,000 bond, posted by her father, was neatly attired when she appeared in court yesterday.

Three witnesses were examined during the afternoon, among them Fred Price, secretary-treasurer of the Midland Saving and Trust company. Court adjourned at 4 o'clock, resuming at 9 o'clock this morning.

Judging from the number of witnesses who have been called, the case will not go to the jury before early next week. Court will adjourn at noon tomorrow.

Mrs. Camwell has been indicted on 222 counts in connection with forgery and embezzlement charges. She is represented by Attorneys Holt and Nelson. The case is being prosecuted by District Attorney Moorehead and his assistant, Ralph Smith, formerly of East Liverpool.

Council Meeting

to the project. Action was deferred for two weeks pending a conference between members of the street committee and representatives of the traction company which is expected to share in the expense of the improvement.

Recommends New Water Line.

Director Moore who told council that he made an investigation following the recent fire in Observation street, recommended the laying of approximately 1,300 feet of water pipe, which he said would prove ample in fighting future fires in the West End. He was instructed to proceed with the work. The estimated cost of the improvement is $4,000.

Resolution was passed on first reading reducing the assessment on the property of Louise P. Rigot from $844.80 to $266.67. A motion to suspend the rules for final passage was blocked by Farrall who voted in the negative.

Ordinance was passed authorizing the service-safety director to advertise for bids for the purchase of a baffle to be used in the water works department.

Resolutions authorizing legal publication covering assessments for sanitary sewers in Burford, Smithfield and Springdale streets and for the resurfacing of East Second street were passed under suspension of rules.

Delegation from Riley avenue asked that some action to be taken on the construction of a sanitary sewer the contract for which was awarded last year. Residents of Perry avenue, Drain and Morton streets urged improvement of these thoroughfares.

Protests Received.

Committee from Pleasant Heights reported having secured a garage to house the fire equipment which will be sent to that district from the Klondike station. They announced that an option had been taken on a lot for a permanent building.

Solon Herrington, member of the street committee, reported having investigated the Western Union Telegraph company sign on West Sixth street which brought a protest at the last meeting from Mrs. Rachael Loomis. He said that the support of the sign was weak but saw no remedy other than to have it braced.

Communication was read from the Cartwright Bros. Pottery company protesting against the obstruction of the road at their plant by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. It was referred to the street committee.

Resolution adopted at a recent meeting of mouldmakers' local No. 22, protesting against the use of the market house money for any other purpose but that originally intended was read and ordered filed.

Councilman Farrall reported that the investigation of paving materials for proposed street improvements had not been completed and asked that more time be granted.

Petition was read from property holders of Sunnyside avenue and Glenn street requesting street improvements. The matter was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Nearly 193,000,000 cigars, an increase of 17,000,000 over 1924, were brought from the Philippines to the United States last year.

Cancer Was Cause Of Death of Col. John C. Coolidge

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Official cause of the death of Col. John C. Coolidge, 80-year-old father of the president, was announced here today by Dr. A. M. Cram, attending physician, as "carcinoma" or cancer.

The secondary and contributing cause was myocarditis, a disease of the heart muscles.

Coolidge Funeral

Plans for Funeral.

It is typical of the Green Mountains.

The Rev. John White, of Sherburn, will conduct tomorrow's services in the same small parlor where, under dramatic circumstances, the old colonel had administered the oath of office to his son on that fate August night of 1923.

Present only will be the immediate family—the president, Mrs. Coolidge, their son, John, and Aunt Grace, and Uncle John Wilder—and the town folk of Plymouth. Officialdom will be represented only by the presence of Captain Adolphus Andrews, naval aide to the president, and by the cordon of National Guardsmen about the house and guarding the cross roads.

From the house, the little group of mourners will follow the coffin, loaded on a "pung," or a flat sled, to the burial plot on the place between the graves of his two wives and Abbie, dead sister of the president. Snow was being cleared away today in preparation for the arduous task of breaking the frozen ground for the grave.

President Takes Loss Stoically.

Meanwhile, the president took the loss of his father stoically. He had known death was impending, for, daily during the past two weeks, he had received reports almost hourly of the slow ebb of life. He had rushed from Washington when word finally came that the end was near, but he had thought he could reach Plymouth in time to see his father alive once more. In fact, he had even insisted that "father will live to see bare ground."

Upon arriving, Mr. Coolidge, accompanied only by Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, entered the old homestead, where, for an hour, they remained with the body and assisted in the final arrangements.

Then they returned to the Woodstock Inn, 16 miles distant, there to remain until tomorrow.

Hazards Accompanying Trip.

The dash from Washington was accompanied by hazards not experienced by any president of modern times. At 6:30 o'clock this morning the special train reached Woodstock. The thermometer registered zero; snow was banked to a height of five and six feet on either side of the specially cut roadway.

Following breakfast and a brief rest, the presidential party undertook the negotiation of the remaining 16 miles of the journey over the mountains. The first stage was comparatively easy, for huge snow plows had cut a way through as far as Bridge water Corners. From there on, however, the trip had to be made by bobsleigh for the narrow one-way road was still too snow-covered to permit use of an automobile.

Since his ascendancy to the White House, President Coolidge's visits have been tinged with sorrow. Five times, he has returned to the scenes of his youth; four times it has been because of illness or death. First, his son died and was brought here for burial. Then, last summer, the strain of his 80 years told suddenly on Colonel Coolidge and the executive made a mad race from the summer White House at Swampscott, feeling he would not see his father alive. But the aged man survived—temporarily. Later in the summer he again made a special trip from Swampscott to see the colonel.

Today, he came to buy him.

Gazes at Father's Remains.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Behind a spanking pair of bay horses in a double seated sleigh, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, came home today to attend the funeral of his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, who died here last night.

As he stepped from the sleigh a long streamer of purple ribbon surmounted by a green wreath bespoke the tragedy of the Coolidge home.

The president motored from Woodstock to Bridgewater, where, because of the poor condition of the roads, the party transferred to horse-drawn sleighs. The president and his party came as far as Woodstock by special train which was racing to Plymouth in hopes of getting here before death called Col. Coolidge.

The president arrived at 10:10 this morning. He went straight into the little parlor where he gazed in dry-eyed sorrow at what remained of his old father.

Mrs. Coolidge stood on the other side, tears welling into her eyes. They only stayed in the room a few moments, then going into the sitting room, where they talked with Dr. Albert Cram about the colonel's last hours.

Soldiers Shut Off Travel.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Speeding here to the home of his father whose spirit wafted from the spent body while his train was still a hundred miles away, President Calvin Coolidge's special train left White River junction at 6:05 a. m., on the last leg of the journey.

From White River they went 12 miles on the Woodstock railroad ending up at the Woodstock Inn, 13 miles from the family homestead. The train arrived at Woodstock shortly before 7 o'clock.

When news of the president's party reaching White River junction reached here, 18 members of Company B, of the 172nd Infantry who pulled into Plymouth after midnight, marched down the Bridgewater road and shut off all travel. The 18 were joined on the Woodstock end of the road by a company of national guardsmen from that town.

The news of the close proximity of the president did not stir up very much excitement here and no great number of persons planned to greet him.

Although the colonel died at 10:41 p. m., the president was not informed of his father's death until 11:50, when his train stopper at Bridgeport, Conn.

While the president was racing to the bedside, Col. Coolidge sank into a coma which he never emerged and died at 10:41 p. m. With him was Dr. Albert M. Cram, who had remained at his side all day after reaching the house in answer to an emergency call at 6:30 a. m.

During the day he continued to fail and at about 5 o'clock it was certain he could not last long.

His aged housekeeper, Miss Aurora Pierce, who had been with him for 20 years, had retired for the night when she was awakened and told that death was near.

It was deemed best that she be kept out of the death chamber and when the end came only the doctor, Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse, and Angus Macaulay, deputy sheriff bodyguard, were present.

Old Friends at Bedside.

About an hour and a half before the end, Miss Florence Cilley, proprietress of the general store which the colonel sold to her, and her ward, Miss Viola Hickory, entered the house to take a last look at the dying man. They were the last outside the household to see him. Both stayed but a few minutes and even to their uninitiated eyes it was apparent that he was near death.

After the end came Dr. Cram made several calls, notifying the White House and sending for the undertaker, Willard D. Cofot, of Woodstock. The latter arrived about 12:30 and spent the remainder of the night laying out the remains.

The chief topic about the little country store where practically the entire population is assembled today, is the effect the death of Col. Coolidge will have upon the president.

In the white cottage that was dearer to him than the White House in Washington where he could have had a home, the old dominating figure of this town is still and cold. He lies in state, but his will that carried him over all obstacles when all else failed is still felt.

Arranges His Own Funeral.

The burial arrangements are being carried out as he ordered and paid for before the mists fell about him. Willard D. Cofot, funeral director, his bill paid in full in advance, prepared the body for the visit of the president.

It lies in that part of the house where Calvin Coolidge, in the small hours of a chilly morning, by the light of an old fashioned kerosene lamp subscribed to the oath of president as administered to him from the lips of his own father.

Everything in the room today will remind President Coolidge of that night. The furniture, the pictures, the old family Bible, even the kerosene lamp are there. The justice of peace who swore him in is there. He is no longer erect, but a prone figure, marble brow, on a bed of satin in a plain casket. He is the only part of that ceremony of months ago that is not natural now.

Only Flag at Half Staff.

The little grave on the hillside where all other Coolidges lie slumbering the sleep of eternity will be opened tomorrow to receive the Colonel. In this his will again works. He it was who called Azro Johnston, town selectman, to his bedside a few days before he lost consciousness, and paid him to prepare the ground to receive his remains.

Johnson will tomorrow morning swing a heavy sledge on the hard crust after the snow is cleared off, to break the heavy crust.

The only flag in town today is at half staff on the little school house that looks down on the colonel's home from an eminence a little way to the west. The staff from which this bunting hangs in mourning at one time raised its shaft over the Vermont state house where Colonel Coolidge was very well known for his two terms in the general assembly and one in the senate.

Colonel John Coolidge, "The grand old man of the Vermont hills," was born in Plymouth, Vt., on March 31, 1845, the son of a family which prided itself on ancestors who came here in the early seventeenth century, made fame for themselves in the new world, and fought for freedom in the revolution. He was educated in the local public schools and at the Black River academy, Ludlow, which also claims the president as an alumnus.

When 23 years of age, Colonel Coolidge opened a general store at Plymouth Notch, which also served as a dwelling for the colonel and his family. It was here that Calvin Coolidge was born, and here he took the oath of president of the United States.

Colonel Coolidge was twice married. His first wife, Victoria Josephine Moore, bore two children; Calvin on July 4, 1872, and Abbie Grace on April, 15, 1875. The first Mrs. Coolidge died in 1885, when only thirty-nine. Her daughter followed her five years later, at the age of fifteen. In 1891, Colonel Coolidge married Curie A. Brown, also a native of Plymouth. She died in 1920.

Colonel Coolidge engaged in active business for only 10 years. He settled down to the life of a farmer at the age of 33, tilling the farm land adjoining the little farm cottage in which the thirty-first president of the United States first saw the light of day.

The decline of Colonel Coolidge's health began about a year ago. Recurrent heart blocs caused temporary paralysis. Upon the insistence of his son, he went to Boston and was treated at the Massachusetts General hospital. His illness became acute in the early summer, and, last June, he was afflicted with a severe prostatic ailment which necessitated an operation. The president raced from the summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., by special train and auto to the bedside of his stricken father.

Colonel Coolidge lay upon an improvised operating table in the sitting room in which he had administered the oath of office to his famous son.

Colonel Coolidge rallied, but never regained his former health and vigor.

Colonel Coolidge died as he had lived, strong, silent and brave.

Dawes Drafts Condolences.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes, ranking officer of the government in the Capital today, issued a statement of condolence on the death of the president's father, Col. John C. Coolidge.

"No one could know Colonel Coolidge without being impressed by his character—a character as rugged and stable as the Vermont mountains among which he lived. He was a personality in himself. Even after his son was chosen as the nation's chief I imagine that his neighbors at Plymouth more often though of the president as the son of Col. Coolidge than they did of Col. Coolidge as the father of a president.

"Colonel Coolidge died in the knowledge of the honorable success of his only son—a knowledge which is the greatest boon that could come to a father in this life, and which can decorate with happiness even the long and painful days when the shadow of death itself are deepening. The nation has taken a pride in him and suffers a loss in his death. Its people mourn with his bereaved son and family."

Pope Cables Condolences.

ROME March 19.—The pope today cabled the papal delegate in Washington to express his condolences to President Coolidge, over the death of Colonel Coolidge.

County Steam Shovel Ready for Work on Youngstown Highway

A county-owned steam shovel, which has been working in the north part of the county, will be brought here during the early part of next week to begin grading the city's section of the East Liverpool - Youngstown highway.

This improvement will be in accordance with an agreement made between the city and the county, whereby the county will furnish the steam shovel and men to operate it if the city will provide the teams.

The steam shovel will first straighten the course of Carpenter's run, cutting a channel along the bank of the Y. & O. railroad. It will then be brought to the road where excavation work will be started. Council recently voted a $6,000 bond issue to meet the city's share of the cost of the proposed improvement.

ness is mental activity of a useful kind. Money can't interfere with that, but poverty can.

TWO learned Turkish scholars, Mehmed Ahkiff, and the Mohammedan priest, Kutchuk Hamdi, will translate the Koran from the original Arabic into every-day Turkish, enabling every-day Turks to read the sacred book. Whether that will strengthen the hold of Mohammed on the public mind is a question. Mystery helps religion.

To tell a modern Turk how Mohammed rode up to heaven on his white horse, saw angels with eyes many miles apart, etc., may strike the modern Turk as improbable—that is, if the modern Turk is permitted to think for himself on such subjects.

EIGHTY-FIVE per cent increase in our import duty will keep Italian straw, for making hats, out of the United States and take work from 100,000 in Tuscany. Unless it can be shown that this country makes a great deal by this tariff-increase, it seems useless cruelty to ruin an industry that employs 100,000 workers in a friendly nation.

FIND GIRL'S BODY IN BROOK

Murder Mystery is Uncovered at Dedham, Mass.

DEDHAM, Mass., March 19. — The body of a 20-year-old girl with a large boulder weighing down her head, which rested in a brook, was found today near the Stony Brook reservation.

Near the spot where the body was discovered were blood spots in the soil.

The head and shoulders of the girl were covered with a cloth coat and the clothing was in disorder.

Police believe the girl had been slain after being attacked and that the boulder, which weighed 200 pounds, had been rolled on her to crush her head. Apparently, police said, the girl's head had been held in the water of the brook until life was gone, but the murderer made death certain by using the boulder.

BLAST WRECKS HOUSE, SOFT DRINK PARLOR

No Loss of Life in Terrific Explosion in Cleveland.

BLAZE FOLLOWS

Detectives and Fire Wardens Investigate Cause.

CLEVELAND, March 19.—City detectives and fire wardens today were investigating the cause of the tremendous blast that late last night literally blew to pieces the house and soft drink parlor at 1301 East Fifty-fourth street, rocking the entire East Side, breaking windows for blocks in the vicinity and slightly injuring eight persons.

Police and firemen, after subduing the flames that swept the wreckage, searched the ruins for hours early today before they ascertained there had been no loss of life.

It was a miracle, police said, that no one was killed. Two-year-old Dorothy, one of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sudolnik, owners of the soft drink parlor, was blown from her mother's lap into the street.

Those in the building when the explosion took place were:

Mr. and Mrs. Sudolnik and their children, Jennie, 13; Frank, 11; Eleanor, 9; Tony, 5, and Dorothy, 2. All were more or less bruised.

Jack Meyer, 38, a customer, who was in the soft drink parlor when the blast occurred, received three broken ribs.

Police said today it had not been determined whether the explosion was due to gas leakage, sewer gas, a dynamite bomb or something else.

pistol, shot both women dead and fled from the ranch in his automobile.

While the ranch was in an uproar, Goins drove back to Stockton and went to the law office of McNoble & Arndt. He inquired for McNoble, and when told that he was in San Francisco, strode out of the office and drove to McNoble's home.

When Mrs. McNoble came to the door, Goins began talking irrationally about his affairs. After Mrs. McNoble resented his presence, Goins again pulled his pistol and killed her.

Speeding to Galt, 29 miles away, Goins prepared to add to his victims. At the conclusion of his trip there three more persons were dead. They were Mr. and Mrs. Marengo and their daughter, Mrs. Dutra.

Car Plunges Down Embankment.

Goins then headed for Placer county, where he once lived, in an effort to escape to the mountainous country. Officers picked up his trail and started in prsuit. Just before dusk last night Goins was seen driving at a furious rate over the mountainous roads near here by Captain E. C. Slatterback, state traffic officer, and W. S. Biggs, Eldorado county supervisor. As the "mad slayer" roared by, he was recognized by Biggs who commanded him to halt. When he failed to do so, both fired at him and then gave chase.

Cornered, Goins, while his machine was traveling at a terrific rate, fired a bullet through his own brain and his car leaped from the road and plunged down an embankment.

RULING ISSUED ON QUARANTINE

With an outbreak of smallpox just reported from Moundsville, another at Lumberport in Harrison county and a recently investigated one at Middlebourne which disclosed 35 active cases and more exposures as well as daily reports of scattered cases all over the state, the question has reached the state department of health as to whether or not a county or city is required by law to provide necessary supplies for persons under quarantine who are not indigent. In seeking legal information regarding this, Dr. W. T. Henshaw, state health commissioner, has the following statement from Howard B. Lee, attorney general:

"I find no statutory authority in the laws of this state imposing upon city or county authorities the duty of providing the necessary living supplies for persons under quarantine, and in the absence of authority am of the opinion that such authorities would not be liable for such expenses, except it be under and by the virtue of the law relating to the care of the poor."

"If vaccination was considered seriously by each individual," Dr. Henshaw declares, "there would be no necessity for quarantine."

Hancock county's fire loss in February was $32,900, an increase of $321,150 over the same month in 1925, it is shown by a report of the state fire marshal department.

There were seven fires reported and in five of these the loss was entire and in two partial. Insurance of $77,500 was carried on the property.

Six dwellings and a store were attacked by the flames. Two fires were of unknown and one of suspicious origin, one was caused by ignition of woodwork from a stove and three caught from adjoining premises.

For the eight months of the fiscal year ending February 28, the loss in Hancock county from 15 fires was $132,265, an increase of $124,515, or 1606 per cent, over the corresponding period preceding.

SHOWING of the new SPRING STYLES

Here in every phase, the new outfit is considered. So that in Coats, Frocks and Suits, as well as the accessories that complete the costume, a fine unity of design is apparent.

Suits Are In Vogue

The suit which is straight of skirt, short of coat and tailored is in again. It is worn with an overblouse of some tub silk in white or a pastel shade, and its jaunty smartness is certain to recommend it to youth.

There is also a cape suit. Some of these are really sport suits, light colored silk frocks with a matching circular cape, coming about to the hips, while those intended for street wear may be either in silk or wool. The capes to the street suits are usually short and circular though a few longer ones are seen.

Picturesque Frock Models

Every frock a delightful version of the new mode for spring! Their styling, their materials and their colors represent all that is new and fashionable in frocks for spring wear.

Plain and Printed Crepes, Georgettes and Taffeta combinations are the materials.

The New Smart Coats

Coats with a graceful flare or with slim, straight lines, vie for your approval in this special showing of Twill Sheen, Lorsheen, Cord Twills and Imported Checks, Plaids and Checks. Some boast of trimmings of rich fur or exquisite embroidery. Others also smartly tailored. Shown in all the new spring shades and in regular and extra sizes.

AKRON, March 19.—More than one thousand followers of South and East high school basketball teams were scheduled to leave here today for Columbus, where they will watch these two quintets battle in the finals of the Ohio state high school tournament tonight.

This is the only city in the state having two teams in the final round of games and Akron is out to make the most of it.

South high's famous band and more than 600 students and faculty members; 400 East students and faculty members, delegations from Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich factories and members of East and South Akron civic associations will be at the mammoth Ohio State coliseum tonight when East plays Lima South, and South plays Columbus East.

Eskimo Must Pay His Alimony With Animals

Anchorage, Alaska.—One hill moose, properly butchered and delivered; ten mink skins, dressed and stretched; five gray fox pelts or one silver pelt, together with 100 full-grown salmon delivered in season is the alimony Charlie Big Eyes must pay his squaw.

This was the decision handed down in divorce proceedings by tribesmen who heard the case against the native of Ninilchik, on lower Cook inlet.

The judges decided that the foregoing constituted a fair share of the increment accruing to a well-regulated native family, whenever the husband drank up 50 mink skins at $5 per pint, the prevailing price for the brand of volcano juice fabricated by the manufacturers on the inlet.

The defendant in the case was charged with having terminated his drinking marathon by pitching his squaw into the creek when she chided him.

Special Round Trip Trolley Rates For 'Student Prince'

Early Curtain for Matinee and Evening Performances at Ceramic Theatre on March 24-25.

Surpassing in size, grandeur and magnificence any theatrical spectacle of a similar nature ever staged in East Liverpool, "The Student Prince," brilliant musical success of the Shuberts, which will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday, with a special matinee on Thursday afternoon, at the Ceramic theatre, can unquestionably be regarded as one of the most important events of the present season.

The producers, as well as the management of the Ceramic theatre, are authority for the assertion that the company to be seen here is, in every respect—size and quality of cast, chorus, scenic investiture and symphony orchestra—the equal of those now playing in New York, Chicago, Boston, and which played Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other metropolitan centers.

"The Student Prince" boasts a company of 108, including a male chorus of 60 voices.

Out-of-town patrons are to be furnished special round trip rates on Thursday and Friday, applying on tickets bought at Steubenville, Toronto, Midland and Beaver. The Steubenville rate will be 85 cents; Toronto, 60 cents; Midland, 30 cents, and Beaver, 75 cents. The rates will not apply on cash fare paid the conductor.

Mail orders are being received at the theatre now for the three performances. The seat sale at the box office will begin Monday, March 22, at 9 a. m.

The evening performance will start at 8:15 and the curtain will go up on Thursday's matinee at 2:15.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After Eating Distress.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meals or over eat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

Fletcher Makes Pennant Bid With Best Club In Four Years

Central A-B, Garfield Win Tourney Contests

Central B defeated Pleasant Heights, 28 to 10; Garfield triumphed over Neville, 20 to 8, and Central A turned back Lincoln, 23 to 14, in grade school basketball tourney games yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

Central B this afternoon will play Sixth Street A, Garfield will tangle with Central A and McKinley will clash with Washington.

The semi-finals in the boys' division will go on at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon and the finals in both the girls' and the boys' divisions will be held tomorrow night, beginning at 7:30.

Then Central B-Pleasant Heights clash of yesterday's bill was the best, in point of performance, of the three games. Both squads played a brand of basketball that would done credit to older teams. The hilltop lads were fully on a par with the Centrals in passing and general team play but their marksmanship fell short.

Central led at the end of the quarter, 8 to 2, and increased it to 18 to 6 at the half. The race continued throughout the third period, but in the windup stanza, Pleasant Heights outscored the downtown aggregation.

Pierson, Mullen and Kittridge were the Central scoring stars, while Pepper, Myler and Jeanguenat were the leading performers for the losers.

The second tilt of the day brought the two East End teams together, Neville and Garfield. Neville really outpassed Garfield but were off in their shooting. Garfield led by a score of 1 to 0 at the end of the first quarter and found the basket for eight more points in the second period. Neville finally got to the basket in the final period, but their efforts came too late. Harris, Dotta and Jackson were the Garfield stars. The playing of Wagner, Morgan and Stanley was outstanding for Neville.

Holding a decided advantage in height and weight CentralA won out over Lincoln in the final quarter of their game. The small but plucky Lincoln youngsters outplayed their opponents for three periods only to go down to defeat after McConville was forced to leave the court on account of an injury. Lincoln led by a 5-0 tally at the quarter and continued to hold the edge during the following quarter. The standing at the half was 7-3.

In the third quarter, Lincoln tacked on three more points right off the reel and it began to look like a decisive Lincoln victory. At this juncture, however, Center McConville was forced to leave the game and the Lincoln five, greatly weakened as a result, dropped back. Carmen, Hall and Alther enacted the leading roles for the winners. McConville, of Lincoln, was the outstanding star of the game, while McKee and Stroble performed well also for the losers.

BERLENBACH'S TEST TONIGHT

If He Wins, He'll go After Tunney and Wills.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Quietly—and, therefore, not without an element of inferred sincerity—the word went out today that Paul Berlenback either will be the leading heavyweight contender within four months or, like some of the guests at Sing Sing, just a man without an immediate future. They say he will gamble everything on the idea that he is to be the modern man of destiny.

Harry Wills? He may have Dempsey bluffed but Berlenbach thinks the colored man will be found with an ace "kicker" in a show down of cold hands. Gene Tunney? Paul will fight Gene the day after tomorrow and intimates that he might find the delay a bit irksome at that.

These statements are not the writers. They are the unchallenged property of Ben Stern, said to be the real manager of Berlenbach, the men who makes his matches. He would make two of them this summer with Tunney and Wills, according to plans aired in private to Jimmy De Forest.

This fact is significant. When a boxing man neglects to raise his voice in making a statement, his remarks usually are worthy of belief. He doesn't speak loudly because he is awed in the presence of truth.

Would Foil Rivals.

The campaign will get a dress rehearsal at the Garden tonight when Berlenbach steps out with Johnny Risko, the man with the nonbreakable windshield. They have been playing billiards off his cowcatcher for some time and if he every finds out about it, John will be real sore. John is awfully hard on the hands.

This, in fact, is the basis of tonight's plot, the real reason for the match. Berlenbach plans to stop Risko and take the play away from Tunney and Jack Delaney, both of whom spent ten rounds on the problem without visible solution.

Paul will have to do 175 pounds, by the commission's mandate, to anything Risko may care to bring into the ring with him but this fact is of no consequence. Berlenbach weighs less than 180, anyhow.

They say he will waste no time on Risko's jowl, as did Tunney and Delaney, but will begin sending left hooks to John's anteroom with the opening bell. The boys allege they noted a fleeing expression of annoyance across John's honest countenance when Delaney deposited a few in the side pocket, so the impression has gained credence that this is the young man's "groove."

If that proves to be the case, Paul is likely to discontinue the gent with great firmness, in which case the Tunney shot will not be so far away. Funny thing; has anyone noticed how all of the boys are trying to avoid Tunney? Neither have I.

Favor Berlenbach

NEW YORK, March 19.—Paul Berlenbach, light heavyweight champion, was today quoted a 2 to 1 favorite over Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, for their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Odds of 5 to 1 were quoted on the possibility of a knockout.

The population of the Sahara desert now is nearly 500,000.

SAMMY MANDELL NOW U. S. CITIZEN

CHICAGO, March 19.—Sammy Mandell has enjoyed many proud moments as hero of the prize ring, but today was the proudest of his life. Sammy said so himself.

Why? Sammy is now a full-fledged citizen of the United States, he received his final papers late yesterday.

Unknown to many of his admirers, the "Rockford Flash" has been an alien. He was born in Albania but came to America from Italy where his parents moved when he was a kid.

To celebrate the occasion, Eddie Kane, his manager, today signed a contract to handle Shuffle Callahan, the lad who created a sensation last week by knocking out Morrie Schlaifer.

TRAINING CAMP CHATTER

Tigers Prime for Toronto.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19. — The ball game today between two clubs from the roster of the Detroit Tigers will be the final of its kind of the spring training season. Tomorrow the Tigers will take on the Toronto club in a series of games. It is reported that Bob Fothergill will play center field this season in place of Ty Cobb in a great many games. The Tigers and Maple Leafs start on an exhibition tour tomorrow.

Mayor Walker Baseball Fan.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—The finale of the Yankee-Braves series today will be witnessed by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, who is in Florida on a vacation.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 19. — McGraw's travelers again were back at their southern headquarters today, slightly the worse for their 9 to 3 beating by the Cleveland Indians in general and Tris Speaker in particular. Spoke drove in five runs and cut off three more by fine catches. One of his drives broke a finger on Hugh McQuillan's pitching hand. Nehf also has a broken finger, while Frisch was unable to play owing to a sore throat.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19.—Reports of another and final effort to obtain Joe Boley, shortstop of the Baltimore Orioles, were in circulation around the headquarters of the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Joe Kelley, veteran scout, is said to have been dispatched to Punta Gordo, the Orioles' camp, to try to close the deal.

TAMPA, March 19.—The Senators' squad was three men lighter today. Frank McGee, Ray Joyce and "Buck" Jones having been farmed to Birmingham. The Nats looked very bad yesterday against the Phillies, losing, 13 to 2.

POWERS BOOK TWO MORE TILTS

Play at Salineville Tonight; Lisbon Five Here Tuesday.

Games with Salineville, the Lisbon Roamers and possibly one or two other teams will keep Power class passers busy until Thursday, April 1, when they clash with the Stag club, of Muskingum college, in the feature tilt of the fag end of the season.

The Powers are slated to play at Salineville tonight, and on next Tuesday night they will mix with the Lisbon quint on the Methodist Episcopal church court here.

Manager Dewey Geren is considering plans to stage the game with the college lads at Wellsville. Clifford Orr, of Wellsville, member of the regular Muskingum college five this year, will be playing with the Stags, as well as two other stars of the team.

M. P.'S DEFEAT BOULEVARDS

Cop Sunday School Cage Clash in Final Half.

Methodist Protestant tossers dropped the Park Boulevard lads, 30 to 20, last night on the Y. M. C. A. court in a Sunday school cage league elimination contest.

The parks gave the M. P. five one of its stiffest battles of the campaign. The first half found both teams racing at a nose and nose clip, the M. P.'s holding the advantage of a 12 to 11 tally. In the last two periods the Parks eased up a little and their rivals drew ahead.

Lutherans will play the Methodists and the Christians will take on the Baptists in games on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A.

Eight Strong Hurlers Boost Phils' Strength

By Bill Brandt.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19.—Arthur Fletcher, famous Giant shortstop of pre-war annals, faces his fourth year as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals with the best team ever assembled under his management. At this writing, George Harper, .354 hitter last year and jackrabbit centerfielder, has not signed his contract, nor has Butch Henline, last year's captain.

These hold-outs, however, must be gathered into the fold to make this year's Phillies loom more powerfully than last year's aggregation, which finished in a tie with Brooklyn for sixth place. The sensational improvement of the pitching staff promises the Phils a first division berth this year, provided Harper is in the line-up and the run making machinery is up to 1925 standards.

The trade of Jimmy Ring to the Giants secured for the Phillies Jack Bentley and Wayland Dean, pitchers.

At present, Fletcher can count on classy pitching from no less than eight men. No Philadelphia Nationals team has been so fortunate in pitching strength since the late Pat Moran gave up the management in 1918.

Carlson, Mitchell Veterans.

The veterans of Fletcher's list are Harold Carlson and Clarence Mitchell, the only southpaw spitballer in the big leagues. With last year's sixth place team, Carlson won 13 and lost 14. Mitchell's figures were 10 and 17.

Second to Carlson is Frank Ulrich, sensational youngster, from Waterbury.

The other three young stars are Claude Willoughby, Art Decatur and Jack Knight.

Knight, drafted from Houston, Tex as league, looks good.

Willoughby came up last fall from Class D Mississippi Valley league, and beat Cincinnati 5 to 1 in his first start.

Wayland Dean is expected to show some of the form which made him the pick of the minor leagues when he pitched for Louisville in 1923.

Ernie Maun, who won 17 games and lost 10 for Indianapolis last year, is the most impressive of the minor league men.

Only two notable changes in personnel are to be recorded. Bentley, as first baseman, is an improvement over last year's pair, Haw and Fonseca, both in hitting and fielding. Bubber Jonnard, drafted from Wichita Falls of the Texas league, is an experienced, smart and hustling catcher to work with Jimmie Wilson, Lew Wendell and perhaps Henline.

Barney Friberg, purchased from the Cubs, will play second and Sand is booked for short. Will Huber, a first year man last season, has been the fielding and hitting sensation of the training.

The outfield Fletcher expects to use includes the veterans Harper, Williams, Mokan and Nixon, together with Fred Leach, who batted .312 in 65 games last season.

Team for team, the Phils this year are the best the Quaker City has seen since the war, particularly in the pitching staff.

RANKING SCOUT HAS 61 MEDALS

Louisiana Boy Has Won All but Three of the Merit Badges.

Lake Charles, La.—Against his father's will, Edwin La Bauve went into the boy scouts five years ago. Today he is the ranking boy scout of the world, having received more of the organization's honors than any other of the 750,000 young gentlemen enlisted in that body. Edwin is pretty proud of himself, quite naturally, but his once dissenting parent is downright jubilant.

What Edwin has actually done is to win 61 of the possible 64 merit badges. No scout now a member of the organization has done this. Last year there was a boy in Terre Haute, Ind., who also won 61 of the merit badges, but he has since passed the age limit and is no longer an active scout.

Is Well Liked.

Everybody in Lake Charles and through much of the surrounding country knows and likes Edwin. He is seventeen years old, 5 feet 2¼ inches tall and weighs 137 pounds.

Five years in the organization, he still does his act of service every day, still is the courteous, helpful, thoughtful chap that he planned to be when he took the scout oath. Harry Woosley, scout executive at Lake Charles, says that Edwin spends much time with other boys, assisting them in scout work and helping them to win merit badges of their own. He has a good business head on him, too. Woosley says that last summer Edwin was in charge of the camp canteen and that he made more money than any of his predecessors.

In the boy scout course, as has been mentioned, there are 64 subjects. In order for a boy to obtain a merit badge on any of these he must, after the required application, stand examination before a qualified board.

The three subjects Edwin has not taken are archery, architecture and radio. But he is studying for these and hopes to wear all the merit badges before long.

The winning of 61 merit badges does not come easily. Edwin has worked and studied virtually night and day since 1920, has plugged through the extensive curriculum of boy scoutry much harder than he would have been obliged to plug through college.

The knowledge crammed into this young fellow's head is little short of astounding. He knows the rudiments of electricity, knows first aid both for humans and animals, knows what birds should be killed and what preserved, knows how to sketch, how to make blueprints, how to survey, knows how to cook, knows about trees and plants, knows the fundamentals of music, of aviation, of welding, understands photography, seamanship, masonry—and many, many other things his scout work has taught him.

Takes Care of Himself.

The precise subjects on which Edwin has received badges are firemanship, blacksmithing, cycling, first aid, life saving, swimming, handicraft, civics, camping, pathfinding athletics, cooking, personal health, carpentry, first aid to animals, safety first, machinery, pioneering, public health, stalking, bird study, automobiling, craftwork in wood, plumbing, poultry, printing, mining, horsemanship, hiking, masonry, scholarship, astronomy, botany, dairying, forestry, signaling, marksmanship, beekeeping, agriculture, painting, photography, leather working, physical development, art, electricity, surveying, interpreting, sculpture, music, bugling, business aviation, seamanship, taxidermy, insect life, foundry practice, angling, textiles, conservation, gardening and chemistry. Think of that!

Edwin takes excellent care of himself. He eats food that is best for him, among other cautions. He does not eat candy. He can lift a 145-pound barrel eight times above his head, can swim like a fish and can hike faster and further than the champion "knight of the road." His proudest possession is his boy scout shirt, the one on which the 61 merit badges are sewed. And if you ask him he will tell you what each badge means and how it was earned.

He was born in Lake Charles. His mother is dead, which makes him more the apple of his father's eye than would ordinarily be the case. The father was born in Louisiana, but all of Edwin's grandparents were born in France, his mother's parents coming to Canada and settling in Ontario, later moving to Louisiana and his father's parents coming straight to New Liberia, La.

Edwin's father operates a prosperous machine shop in Lake Charles and it is this business that he wants to turn over to his accomplished son.

Owner, After 14 Years, Reclaims His Timepiece

Mineral Wells, Texas.—J. E. Johnson, a jeweler, recently delivered to its owner a watch that had been left in the shop for repairs 14 years ago.

"Have you fixed Doctor Mitchell's watch?" asked a customer.

"Doctor Mitchell's watch? Why let's see. H-m, just when did you leave it to be repaired?"

The customer explained that he had not left it, but that Doctor Mitchell of Bowie, Texas, left it 14 years ago, before he moved from Palo Pinto, Texas. The watch had been repaired and was ready for delivery.

Russian Commercial Bank Negotiates New Loan in America

MOSCOW.—The All-Russian Commercial Bank announces that its representatives, I. Baru and I. Vitze, have successfully negotiated a credit of 5,000,000 roubles in the United States.

The bank withholds the source of the credit, which will be used for import and export operations for Soviet co-operatives, and especially for co-operations with Germany, France and the Baltic states.

In China there are more than 14,000 motor vehicles, an increase of nearly one-third within a year in that war-ridden country.

Millions of school children throughout the country are now being safeguarded against Goiter by the use of Mulkey's Iodine Salt in the home. Health authorities approve MULKEY'S, because this is the original Iodine Salt sold by grocers and contains the prescribed amount of iodine to prevent Goiter. You will take no chances on the quality, color or flavor of iodine salt if you insist upon MULKEY'S. Do not be confused by any other brand with similar name or package.

Mulkey's Iodine Salt is pure, wholesome, free-running salt for general use in all families especially where there are children.

and unique. It is believed that the temple will adequately meet these requirements.

In its lovely natural setting, white and graceful, with the exquisite simplicity of old Greece, it will stand through the years as the expression of a city's pride in the men who fought in its behalf. From the grove where it will stand vistas will stretch to the Lincoln Memorial, the Reflecting Basin, the Tidal Basin and the Arlington shores of Virginia. And, used for military concerts, as is planned, each concert will be a memorial service for the deeds of the living whom we honor and the dead whose memories we cherish.

Washington's Show Place.

Potomac Park is more and more coming to be the playground and meeting place of the local populace as well as a show place for visitors. Not so long ago a memorial on the proposed site of the new one would have necessitated a special trip and no doubt there would have been loud groans from the home folks when called upon to take Cousin Ella from Grand Rapids to view it.

Nowadays it is quite customary for many government employes to utilize their lunch periods to get some fresh air and according take walks around the Reflecting Pool. Others who are fortunate enough to own cars may take a short spin around the Speedway. After office hours during the summer months a great many play golf on the courses provided in Potomac Park and others use the excellent tennis courts, while the polo field furnishes spectacular pictures that are decidedly "moving."

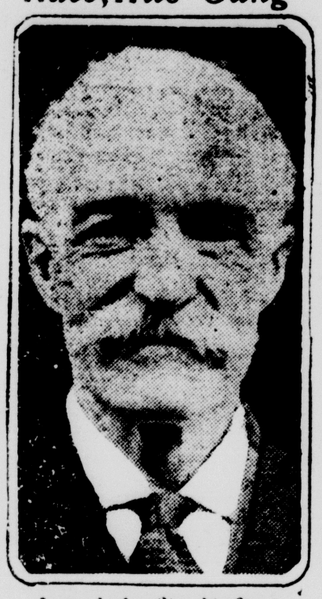

While, of course, the actual distance from uptown to the Tidal Basin or the Speedway is the same, it does not seem as great as it did 10 or 15 years ago. The mere fact that there are buildings all the way down Seventeenth street now makes the distance seem less. There are now several large apartments within a couple of blocks of the Lincoln Memorial and many people living in these are glad of the opportunity to take walks by the river on warm summer evenings.

The new war memorial will really be right in the heart of that part of Washington which is used largely for recreation purposes, and there will be in daily contact with a large proportion of the people.

It is pointed out that this is to be in no way a national memorial. The memorial bridge which is to span the Potomac from the Lincoln Memorial to Arlington, the home of Robert E. Lee, is to speak a nation's remembrance for her defenders, but this classic Greek temple is to show the gratitude of the District of Columbia for its own heroes.

EVE'S TWO LOVERS

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© 1926 CENTRAL PRESS ASSN.

THE STORY UP TO DATE:

EVE MACLAURIE, young, beautiful, thrifty, passionately satisfied with life, loved both her employer, JOHN INGATE, thirty, president of John Ingate's Sons, Inc., one of the largest firms in Central City, and CLAY WALES, an employe of the Ingate concern. She rejected John to marry Clay because she believed that the latter, weak, irresponsible, fiercely jealous, needed her more. Once they were wed, however, she had her doubts about the wisdom of her choice.

On their honeymoon in Chicago, they enjoyed great privileges at the Mohawk country club through the courtesy of John Ingate. There, while playing tennis, they met a MISS JOHNSTONE, violet-eyed, mysterious, and her escort, REGGIE WHITE, who were immediately very friendly. Eve and Clay had no reason to suspect that the pair were blackmailers, utilizing Miss Johnstone's powers of fascination to entrap wealthy men.

The following day, at their hotel, they ran into John Ingate, who, he explained, had been called to the city on business unexpectedly. Although Eve, with Miss Johnstone in mind, perhaps, had decided she didn't want to go back to the country club, when John Ingate proposed a trip out there to the two of them, they went along.

Now to on with the story:

TWENTY-FIVE.

When John Ingate was away from Central City he enjoyed himself much more than his mother and sister, or his business associates, would have suspected. In Central City he was something of a figure of importance, with a position to keep and a dignity to preserve. But in New York or Chicago, or in other cities to which the demands of business took him, he was a person of no importance, and he enjoyed himself as a man does when he rids himself of tight shoes and rasping collar. He spent money for pleasure with careless abandon; ate in the lively restaurants; saw the peppery shows; gambled and drank, with moderation, it can be said, at the club. Such things are unseemly in Central City in a business leader and churchgoer, and at home John Ingate observed the code. In the big city he was a different man.

The car in which he drovee Clay and Eve Wales to the country club was a roadster he had rented from a drive-it-yourself system, and thee three of them were in close quarters in the one seat. Eve sat in the center. Clay was annoyed because, in order to leave the clutch and brake free, his wife's skirt was pulled back so that her legs were revealeed nearly to the knee. She was his scowl but missintrepreted it as a silent protest against the trip to the country. She smiled, thinking of Miss Johnstone.

But for the presence of John, she would have reminded her husband of the violet-eyed one. "I don't think you're so awfully angry because we are going,' she wanted to say banterginly.

"We've certainly missed you at the office," John Ingate remarked.

"Isn't Ethel getting along all right? And Mary?" Eve didn't like to think of Mary Sullivan as taking her place in John Ingate's office. Mary was such a designing girl. Why, no doubt she already was scheming to get John to pay her attentions. Ethel Sopley was the person she had suggested to John as her successor, but she suspected that Ethel's homeliness would make John prefer Mary Sullivan.

"Miss Sullivan has been taking my dication," was the non-committal response.

Eve smiled with the satisfaction that is felt by persons whose judgment is confirmed.

"—— But she doesn't seem to be getting the hang of it," he went on. "I have to tell her things over and over. Take, for instance, matters like shipments through the customs. South America, to her, is one of the 48 states. I've already had a call-down from the customs department because of her laxity with details in the reports."

"Oh, she'll get it in time," said Eve, feeling a deep glow of satisfaction. It is glorious to be missed.

"I HOPE so."

They got into a discussion of pure-business affairs in which Clay had no part. He sat staring blankly through the windshield, trying to rid himself of the foolish suspicion that John Ingate had came to Chicago especially to see Eve. He remembered now the enthusiasm in John Ingate's voice when, at the hotel, he launched this party: "Were you going to the club? Let me give you a boost. You can wander along the flowered paths alone. I'll just give you a boost." Clay doubted it. He would invite them to lunch or something and continue to monopolize Eve. . . . Well, two could play that game. There would be the woman with violet eyes. What was her name? Oh, yes, Miss Johnstone. He recalled her now as the unconventionally clad figure, cigaret in hand, disturbing expression about the eyes with whom he had been momentarily left alone by Reggie White. There was a queer egg—White.

"Clay is a marvelous tennis player; you two must play. . . ." Mention of his name by Eve took Clay's mind off Miss Johnstone.

"I'm not much of a performer myself. Give me a handicap or something?" he said, looking around at Clay.

"I was just lucky yesterday,' Eve's husband responded. "I might be miserable today. I don't think you need a handicap to beat me."

"I don't want to drag you two into anything," said Ingate. "It's your honeymoon, not mine." He could not restrain himself from glancing furtively into Eve's eyes as he said this.

She anticipated him and cast them down, mirroring an expression in the windshield that Clay saw. "I think Eve is glad to see someone from home," he replied, impulsively. "Husbands get boresome in no time."

Eve frowned at the suggestion of an emphasis her husband placed on "someone." She laughed without wanting to: "I've already learned that when husbands aree bored they accuse their wives of being bored."

John Ingate, wondering, kept his eyes on the road. Something in Clay's tone, a suggestion conveyed by Eve's manner implied that this honeymoon was not all bliss. Was it because he had injected himself into it? After placing the note at the office the evening before he had regretted it and returned to retrieve it, only to find it gone. Why had he invited them to go to the club with him? Why hadn't he had enough sense to avoid them? He was angry with himself for having them here. Eve had cast him aside to marry this weakling, why didn't he forget her and retire within the shell from which he had emerged reluctantly to confess his love? But here they weere at the club, and he must make the best of matters. He would, he decided, part from them as soon as possible.

A pair of violet eyes, ensconsed behind the lilac bushes that draped the low veranda of the clubhouse, saw the car give up its passengers. They surveyed Clay Wales critically. Miss Johnstone was not sure that he was worth her time. Might be a real estate salesman, or laundryman. Still, they had money, too. Well Reggie was going to find out about his financial rating. Nice looking wife, she decided. Just the kind that a man would pay a lot of money to keep from knowing about a foolish bit of backsliding.

Morning, Afternoon And Evening Showing Of Fairbanks Film

Douglas Fairbanks put in three months of intensive training for stunts that he does in his latest picture, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," at the American theatre. He learned to handle an Australian stock whip; how to dance the Spanish fandange; how to handle a cape as professional bull fighters do in Spain, and he also added a new style of swordsmanship to his already vast knowledge of fencing.

In "Don Q, Son of Zorro," Douglas Fairbanks uses the same trusty sword that he kissed and stuck high in the wall in the last scene of "The Mark of Zorro." The weapon was found in the set where Doug had thrust it at the finish of that picture.

In another column appears a coupon, which, if presented at the box office of the American theatre Saturday morning or afternoon, will admit any school child for 10 cents.

A special morning performance of "Don Q" will be given at 10 o'clock, but in order to make it possible for all children to see this picture, the coupon will be good for any performance Saturday starting before 5 p. m.

U. S. HAS SPENT 11 BILLIONS FOR INTEREST

Charges on Public Debt Reach Enormous Sum.

WAR IS BLAMED

In But Two Years Was Government Out of Hole.

WASHINGTON—The United States Government has spent more than $11,000,000,000 for the use of other people's money since 1771, according to figures obtained at the Treasury today.

Interest charges on the public debt, which reached a maximum of $1,055,088,000 in 1923, will be approximately $730,000,000 this year. They will decline progressively as the public debt is retired.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon holds that among the most important objectives in the government's economy campaign is the orderly retirement of the debt to save enormous interests costs.

The World War was responsible for more than half of the interest paid out in the history of the government. About one half of the total interest fell due between 1920 and 1926.

Two Years No Interest.

In but two years, 1836 and 1837, was the government out of the hole, no interest having been charged up during that period. Interest average about $5,000,000 annually from 1771 to 1866 when it jumped to $133,000,000 as a result of Civil War costs. The last annual interest payment before the World War amounted to $22,000,000.

In the campaign to reduce Government costs the treasury hopes to cut the public debt about $5,000,000,000 prior to 1930. That reduction would represent a saving in interest of about $200,000,000 a year.

Approximately $6,182,000,000 of the outstanding public debt matures before November 1, 1930. It must be retired or refunded during that period. New issues at lower interest rates are expected to replace that part of the debt which cannot be retired.

The Government must meet maturities of about $1,408,725,000 in 1926. The principal portion is redeemable March 15 when the treasury will announce a new bond issue to take care of a portion of the maturities. Other blocks of bonds are due in June, September and December.

Investors Suffer Loss.

Careless American investors are losing nearly $1,000,000 annually as a result of failure to cash government securities valued at $11,680,000 upon which interest has ceased.

During the year ending March 1, the public debt was reduced $714,561,672, and $6,320,448,000 since the peak of indebtedness of over $26,000,000,000 August 31, 1919.

Carts have taken the place of railway cars for freight transportations between Peking and Tientsen because of the war in China.

AFRICA DONE WITH GAME TRAPPING; WANTS SILK STOCKINGS AND LINGERIE

NEW YORK—"Don't send us traps for man-eating tigers. Send silk stockings and dainty lingerie. Or tractors, something like that."

This is the advice of the union of South Africa to the exporters of the United States, through Eric H. Louw, union government trade commissioner in America.

The opening of the South Africa office in this country is expected to increase trade between the two continents, and to correct erroneous ideas, including the preposterous one "that lions and tigers are shot there, as frequently and as easily as cashiers and jewelers in New York."

"Big game hunting is past," Mr. Louw states, writing of South Africa in the March issue of the World Trade. "The women are garbed in the newest Parish fashions, and surprisingly enough due to the reverse seasons, they wear the coming styles before London or New York. There are four universities turning out doctors, lawyers, engineers and theologians."

The government owns 13,000 miles of railroad. The dining cars serve three table d'hote meals a day for $1.75. Bedding is 75 cents for one unbroken journey, regardless of the number of nights on the train.

NIGHT COUGHS Due to throat and bronchial irritations, are stopped by one swallow of Thoxine. Unlike cough syrups Thoxine goes direct to the internal cause and corrects it at once. No chloroform or harmful drugs. 35c, 60c and $1.00

Tobacco is Proving Too Expensive; Japs Cut Down Smoking

TOKYO.—Japan is smoking less these days not from choice but because tobacco is too expensive. The government tobacco monopoly bureau, increased the price of all cigars, cigarettes and tobacco 20 per cent last November for the purpose of increasing government revenues. The result has been to the contrary, however, and monopoly bureau officials report that consumption of tobacco has diminished from 25 to 40 per cent since the new prices became effective. Shopkeepers are compaining and it is reported that the monopoly bureau heads are considering a cut in the prices of all kinds of tobacco.

NEARER YOU LIVE TO MONTE CARLO HARDER IT IS TO DO YOUR GAMBLING

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, March 16.—The nearer one lives to the famous Casino the harder it is to get in. The Casino house is known as the Club of Strangers or "Le Cercle des Strangers." Foreigners only are allowed within its portals.

A resident of the Principality of Monaco is not given admittance. Nor are residents of the French provinces of the Var or the Alpes Maritimes permitted to risk their chance on the spinning wheel of fortune.

This ruling is given as the reason for so much entertaining on the part of residents of these two departments and the Principality. When a friend comes from Paris he may enter the Casino by showing his poll tax receipt. After having once been given a ticket of entrance the bearer may present himself the following day for entrance without renewing his identity.

In this way a visitor to one of the families of the region is the means of gaining entrance for one member of the family for days after, who otherwise would not be allowed within the Hall of Chance.

Any nationality other than French is compelled to show a passport before being allowed within the doors of the Casino.

Guadalajara, Mexico, is constructing a stadium with a capacity of nearly 20,000, and equipped with gymnasium, shower baths and swimming pool.

NASH SALES HIT HIGH MARK

February, Shortest Month of Year Record Breaker.

February, the shortest month of the year, was the greatest month in the history of the Nash Motors company. Production of the Nash-built Ajax Six also reached a new high record during February. The total output of the Nash-Ajar plants during the 24 working days was 14,148 cars. Nash alone outstripped its previous record month, August 1925, by a margin of several hundred cars. E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company, pointed out that February was the eighteenth consecutive month Nash sales has surpassed the record set by corresponding months of the previous year—with the exception of November, 1925, when production was arbitrarily halted to bring the new "enclosed car" motor into manufacture.

"Despite the handicap of fewer working days," said Mr. McCarty, "both Nash and Ajax built and shipped more cars last month than in any previous month in our history. The plants are working overtime to meet the demand for Nash and Ajax cars which is sweeping the nation as never before. And our manufacturing efforts are again being vigorously increased to cope with the flood of orders pouring in from all sections of the country. In spite of the tremendous shipments to the dealer organization throughout February unfilled retail orders greatly exceed orders on file at this time a year ago. Among the cities that have a large number of unfilled retail orders notwithstanding are Chicago, with 708; New York, 601; Boston, 281; Philadelphia, 187; Cleveland, 156, and Detroit, 134.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yet, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tried, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing, flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask any live pharmacist anywhere.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Our Prescription Departments!

It might be surprising to you to know of the number of different items carried in our prescription departments and the number of different items is impressed on us very strongly at inventory time. We try to carry in our prescription departments everything that is liable to be called for but even then we get calls for items that we don't have and in those cases we do not fill the prescription but make an extreme effort to obtain the article prescribed at the earliest possible moment.

Miss America Chocolates!

This is a new package of assorted chocolates with us and judging from the quality of the goods we believe that it is going to be a winner. One pound box, good assortment, for 59c.

Mello-Glo.

Mello-Glo preparations for a good complexion are four in number: Powder, Rouge, Cream and Skintone. They are all different from the average preparations for the same purpose and you will be delighted with any of them especially the cream which is neither greasy nor is it a vanishing cream but a cream that nourishes the tissues, makes the pores smaller and acts as a powder base all at the same time.

Police and Fountain News!

A Palate and a Tummy got into a fight
'Cause the Palate wasn't training the Tummy right—
For the Tummy was hollerin for lotsa Ice Cream—
Needed a cooling or so 'twould seem!

So the two of 'em got a Big Malted Milk,
Which slid past the Palate slick as silk;
And "pleased" was no name for the way he felt,
And the Tummy smiled gaily under its belt.
Now they're friends!

What Do You Think!

A man high in finance, business and letters made the statement a few weeks ago before a prominent gathering that this country was in for ONE HUNDRED YEARS or PROSPERITY! His remarks were cheered by his audience!

Another man, equally prominent, in commenting on this statement, opined that NOTHING COULD BE MORE HARMFUL to this country than a hundred years of of UNINTERRUPTED prosperity! He backed up his criticism by figures and statistics showing that NULIMITED prosperity tended to make peoples extravagant, luxury loving, soft, immoral and irreligious! He had charts showing that these weaknesses of the human were decidedly more in evidence during prosperous times than in the "struggle" periods.

And THAT'S something to think about!

JOHN CARNAHAN.

Shorty Says:

Personally I'll pick on prosperity if you ask ME! I dote on extravagance and luxury especially — from what I've HEARD of it! I never felt that I could blush myself to death on acct. of bein rich! Certainly I'm curious to see how'd I act but there's one thing that will be the first thing I will do and that is to see how many good cigars Jack will give me for the alarm clock I bought in one of the Carnahan Stores. It's too darned efficient.

Take a Kodak With You!

The almanac says that Spring will soon be with us and stories of Spring robins are now in order. We are not weather prophets but it won't be long until we will be having lots of wonderful days when you can get out in the open with your Kodak. In buying films come to us for our films are fresh because we are direct Eastman dealers.

A Bore Perhaps —But Necesary!

Please pardon us for bringing up again this subject of Razor Blades! Trey're just as tireosme to us as they are to you, yet it would be an awful world if the Government would prohibit their manufacture! We carry EVERY sort—all for sale!

Are We Wrong About This?

You've noticed probably how we always suggest the QUART BRICK at 50c instead of the bulk Ice Cream. Rieck's Ice Cream is ALL good but we fell that the brick is a much easier package to manage for you customers, as the cream lands at home in neater shape. Saves US time too. That's ONE of the reasons for the low price, too. AT NO OTHER STORE can you buy Rieck's Ice Cream!

Ust to be the MEN —Years Ago!

During the period when Charles the 1st was struttin his stuff in silk britches, lace jabots and cuffs, I bet he'd sure be tickled pink to have had a counter like our TOILETRY Dept., to step up to and get all beautied up. Them was the days! For MEN. Can you imagine such a thing NOWdays—the silk britches, lace, etc.?

New War in Arabia Looms up Strongly As Chieftains Quarrel

JERUSALEM, March 15.—The Imam Yehia, ruler of Yemen, is backing ex-King Ali in his stand to regain the lost Hedjazian throne for the Hashemites, if reports from Arabia are true.

The Imam has an old score to settle with Sultan Ibn Saud, the Wahabi chieftain, who has created a desert empire in little under three years by sheer force of character. The Emir of the Idrissi, another powerful tribal leader in Arabia, will support Ibn Saud.

The suggestion that Italy is backing the Imam in his quarrel and that Great Britain will bolster up Ibn Saud has been officially denied by both governments, who declare that they have no concern in "a purely local trouble."

CALIFORNIAN SAILS FOR SCOTLAND TO SEARCH FOR SITE OF OLD TROY

SAN FRANCISCO — Page Ulysses, the rambling Greek of the classic past! Tell him that a twentieth century mortal, a California yachtsman, is out for some of his fame.

The mortal is Dr. E. R. Parker, widely known San Francisco sportsman.

Determined to find the site of ancient Troy, scene of Ulysses' greatest exploits, Dr. Parker is today making preparations to embark soon on an astounding modern odyssey.

Dr. Parker proposes to sail his famous schooner Idalia to England and Scotland via the Panama Canal, and there search for the ruins of Troy.

The doctor is convinced that ancient Troy was situated near the mouth of one of the many Avons of England and that Ulysses' various adventures, shipwrecks and the like were along the coast of Caledonia, Scotland.

This is in direct contradiction to the theory held by many historians that Troy was situated on the shores of Asia Minor, in the eastern Mediterranean.

Parker will be accompanied by his close friends Captain George H. Cooper, of San Jose, a retired sea captain, and by photographers and historians.

The party will spend a few thousand dollars in a voyage of exploration which will follow the charted course supposedly taken by the old hero of the Greeks.

Dr. Parker gained considerable fame for himself when last summer he navigated his schooner, the Idalia, from San Francisco to Tahiti in the South Seas, and brought her back home again, the entire voyage being made by sail.

But this cruise through the summer sea will be as nothing compared to the adventure now in the offing.

"Dustman's Knee" is Latest Addition to Ills of Mankind

LONDON — After housemaid's knee, writer's cramp, and the tennis elbow, comes "dustman's" knee.

"Dustman's" knee is the latest addition to the world's ills. It has been discovered by Dr. W. MacAdam Eccles, surgeon to a famous London hospital.

Describing how it arises Dr. Eccles says: "A dustman not infrequently has a short ladder by the side of his cart. He mounts two or three rungs of this, and then leans with the upper end of his shin-bone against one of the higher rungs, so as to get a purchase to enable him to tilt the dust receptacle into the cart." The constant pressure against the shin-bone results in a peculiar kind of ailment, according to Dr. Eccles.

Burning of kerosene or gasoline from other countries is now forbidden in Turkey.

NEED PERMIT TO ENJOY JOKE AT SYRACUSE

Quip Must Have Sanction Before Laugh is Legal.

UNIVERSITY RULE

Censorship Follows Issue of "Salt Shaker."

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Students at Syracuse University may not laugh at a joke unless the quip has the official sanction of the university administration.

At least, that is the interpretation of students to the latest move of Chancellor Charles W. Flint, in naming, the vice-chancellor, William P. Graham, as official censor.

The censorship was imposed following three issues of the only humorous publication at the university, the Salt Shaker. Jokes about prohibition, about co-eds and those at the expense of the religious executives, are notable by their absence in the latest issue of the Salt Shaker, which the chancellor has decreed shall be literary rather than humorous in the future.

The tale of alleged humorous publications at the Syracuse university has been a sad one. The Orange Peel, the best known of these publications was suspended and banished by the late chancellor, James R. Day. In the subsequent years students, time and again, petitioned the administration to sanction a humorous publication, but each request was met with blunt and short refusal.

Then the students decided to start the Salt Shaker without university official approval. It was tolerated until the chancellor decided to shake the Salt Shaker, and in this process C. Albro Newton, one of the editors, found himself an ex-editor and many members of the Salt Shaker staff were back at their studies. Miss Mary Landenberg, it was announced would thereafter be the sole editor.

She was called into conference with Chancellor Flint, who informed her that hereafter the vice-chancellor would wield the blue pencil and scissors on all copy which was intended for publication. Furthermore, Miss Landenberg was informed, the future trend of the Salt Shaker should be to developing appreciation of literature rather than humor.

AIRSHIP LINE ACROSS OCEAN CONTEMPLATED

Group of American Capitalists Sponsor Movement.

PLAN BIG CRAFT

Ford, Rockefeller and Guggenheim Trustees Interested.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A group of American capitalists are contemplating the establishment of a trans-ocean dirigible line between the United States and Europe at "an early date," it was learned today.

The project, inspired by a few air enthusiasts, is so near realization, it was said, that definite types of ships, the frequency of runs and their scheduled time of flight are now being worked out.

Godfrey Lowell Cabot, president of the National Aeronautical association, is one of those behind the proposed air line to Europe.

"A fleet of dirigibles, two or three times as large as the Shenandoah, will be regularly flying back and forth between the United States and Europe, on scheduled time by 1925," declared Cabot.

"The undertaking is being studied by a group of the country's biggest capitalists."

Public Service Corporation.

Inquiry revealed that secret conferences, studies and negotiations on the project have been in progress for some time. Because of the magnitude of the undertaking names of the group planning the line, are being closely guarded. It is understood here, however, that Edsel Ford, John D. Rockefeller and the trustees of the Guggenheim aeronautical fund are interested.

According to Cabot the line would be in the nature of a public service corporation, with the passenger rates low enough to assure a steady stream of air traffic between the continents.

"The fear of danger rather than the cost has handicapped trans-oceanic dirigible travel thus far," Cabot said. "But the safety of these airships is daily becoming more and more secure. But for fear of injury or accident, in the past, there would have been a great number of persons who would have gone through the air to Europe for the sake of time-saving," Cabot added.

Carry 100 Passengers

Washington officials were greatly interested today in the visualization of linking the continents by aircraft—It is an old story here that of inventor's futuristic day dreams of gigantic dirigibles carrying hundreds of passengers back and forth between the United States and Europe, in roomy, luxurious cabins—of lighted airships passing one another in the night far out at sea—of the power and speed of such huge vessels pushing across the Atlantic in two days.

Making a commercial reality of those dreams is such a new story that the capital buzzed with interest when the ambitious program was partially revealed.

The air line to Europe this country will shortly see, Cabot predicted, would be comprised of a fleet of ships, each having about 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity.

"Such ships will comfortably carry 100 passengers," Cabot continued, "with more conveniences and room than a train of pullman cars. There wil be runways where the passengers can walk. There will be nicely appointed dining and lounging rooms and the sleeping compartments will be as comfortable as those on trains or ships.

Two-day Journey.

"The average passage from the United States to Europe will be between one and a half and two days. The return trip will be longer, due to the winds which prevail, taking perhaps between two and a half and three days.

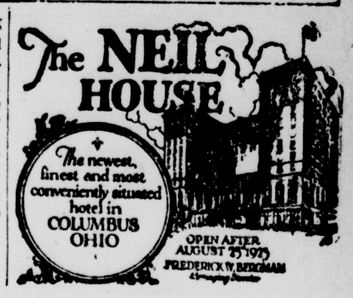

"The structure of trans-oceanic liners will be better than the old dirigibles with the envelope better supported so that it will flutter less in the wind. Metal clad dirigibles, contemplated by the navy, will be watched with interest.

"In my opinion the immediate development of dirigibles will be toward shorter and fatter shapes. The placing of the control cabin within the hull will also greatly diminish the danger of injury by wind. "The control cabin of the Shenandoah dangled from the framework, and its ripping off partly caused its crash. The control cabin of the Los Angeles is set in the hull."

Cabot enthusiastically predicted that aviation will completely revolutionize transportation within the next 20 years.

Why have RHEUMATISM?

OH, what a wonderful feeling to be free from that miserable rheumatism. To know again the joy of limber joints and active muscles—freedom from that agonizing pain!

How often have you longed for some relief as you suffered torture from swollen, inflamed muscles and joints—how often have you said you would give anything in the World for a few hours comfort!

But you didn't know that all you had to do to get real relief from this nerve wracking misery was just to build rich, red blood, did you? You didn't know that rheumatism had to be stopped from the inside by destroying the impurities that cause it—by building millions of red cells in your poor, weak blood, did you?

Until you fill your system full of healthy, rich, red blood you will never end your rheumatism. S. S. S. will surely help you. That's because S.S.S. helps Nature build the red-blood-cells that fight off the impurities that cause rheumatism.

Conquer rheumatism! S. S. S. has shown the way. For generations S. S. S. has brought blessed relief and comfort to thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

When the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build goes coursing through your system, it purifies the blood in your body. Rheumatism vanishes—skin blemishes disappear—you begin to get hungry again and enjoy your food—strength and power fill your body—you are vigorous—red-blooded and ready for action. All of His Ill Health Was Due to Catarrh

Indigestion, Lack of Appetite, Bloating, Dyspepsia and Constipation Symptoms

World's Tonic Cleaned Up the Membranes of His Head and Stomach—Now Back on the Job.

"I did not realize all my ill health for the last five years was due to nothing but Catarrh, said Mrs. W. W. Hatcher, 1007 Dresden St., in a recent talk with the World's Tonic druggist.

"I had taken many kinds of stomach medicines, thinking my trouble was due to indigestion, but after using two bottles of World's Tonic I feel entirely well for the first time in five years. I am now positive I had catarrh of the stomach and head. After eating gas formed in the stomach and bowels. At this time I would bloat so I had to unbutton my clothing, and at times was just able to breathe. I always had a burning sensation, and I often spit up handful of mucus. I could feel the mucus drip from my head into my throat. Each morning I was drowsy and my head felt dull and heavy. At times I was not able to breathe through my nostrils. My wife said I slept with my mouth open and my breathing was heavy. Constipation attacked me about four years ago and I had to use some kinds of pills or salts every few days, but it is different now. Most all those bad feelings are gone and I am better off from a health standpoint than in years. I am now on my job every day. World's Tonic has certainly done wonders for me."

Many cases of general ill health are due to nothing more or less than Catarrh. As this disease progresses the discharges from the inflammation in the throat become offensive and very poisonous. A great deal of this matter is swallowed especially during sleeping and enters the stomach. There follows all kinds of stomach disorders, general weakness and the health in general declines rapidly. A person so suffering needs World's Tonic, which is a complete systemic treatment for Catarrh, and banishes it from the system. Get it at Carnahand, or Brannan's at Wellsville and all other reliable drug stores.

China might be beaten into order sufficient for business purposes. But there are the Bolsheviki.

Japan fears that Bolshevism may back the Chinese agitation, and remembering that the allied nations of Europe combined were unable to coerce Russia, Japan would not care to undertake that job alone.

EUGENE C. MAY, highly educated, has left this earth in disgust. Years ago he learned the location of a schooner sunk in a few fathoms of water on its way from the Australian gold fields with $10,000,000 in gold on board.

Trying to get that gold he fitted out two expeditions, spent all he had, more than $100,000, failed. He opened the veins in his wrists, died, and now his ashes will be scattered on the surface of the Pacific ocean above the $10,000,000 in gold that he did not get. A good text for sermons.

Sends Bullet Into Own Brain.

Police, following the trail taken by the slayer as he wiped out those concerned in his family troubles, a dispute over a charge of horse stealing and the failure of a law suit against a railroad company for the loss of his leg, caught up with him near here just as he sent a bullet into his own brain while fleeing in an automobile along a mountain road.

Goins' victims were:

City Civil Service Board to Organize At Meeting Today

W. T. Anderson, East End coal dealer, probably will be elected chairman of the civil service commission at a reorganization meeting in the office of Solicitor Hoover in municipal court headquarters this afternoon. Anderson was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum this year to succeed T. A. McNicol, whose term of office expired.

Edward L. Green, East End grocer, will be named vice chairman while Willis Davidson, porcelain manufacturer, who is filling out the unexpired term of E. L. Bradfield, will be chosen secretary.

The board is expected to arrange for police and fire department examinations.

TWO MEN HELD ON GRAVE COUNT

Charles Weiss, 38, Wellsville railroader and Howard Woodruff, 22, of East Liverpool, are being held in jail at Lisbon pending a hearing before Judge Lodge Riddle next Tuesday upon charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 18-year-old girl, who is also being held at Lisbon. The men were arrested on warrants issued by Sheriff George Wright in probate court at Lisbon following disclosures alleged to have been made by the girl. Pleas of not guilty were entered, and bonds were fixed at $500 each.

Boys, Who Used Sixth Building Room Over Week-end, Deny Utility Man's Charge of Breaking and Entering.

Thirteen boys, ranging from 11 to 17 years of age, who are alleged to have entered the Sixth street school on Saturday and Sunday February 27 and 28, to play basketball were "on the carpet" before the board of education last evening.

The lads denied having forced an entrance into the school, asserting that they had entered through one of the fire escape doors which had been left unlocked. They were discovered in the building by school janitor who reported to Joseph Hughes, utility man for the board.

According to first reports, entrance was effected by smashing a window in the cellar. The boys declared they knew nothing of the broken glass. They explained that the janitor had permitted them to use the school room, fitted for basketball purposes, while he was in the building on Saturdays.

Four of the boys attend the Sixth street school, others are enrolled in the Washington building, while one is in high school, one in continuation school and two others are not pupils. Fifteen lads are alleged to have visited the school but only 13 of them appeared before the board.

After a two-hour inquiry, the lads were dismissed with a warning.

Approval of the budget for 1926, fixing the expenses of the schools at $342,405 was voted by the board. While this amount has been set aside as the approximate needs the year, not more than $310,000 will be derived from tax settlements, according to Emmett J. Gaston, secretary -treasurer.

Gaston reported that school board funds in all probability, would be exhausted during the early part of May and that it would be necessary to borrow money to meet the May payroll pending the receipt of June taxes. In the budget for the year, the board set aside $1,000 for interest. Final settlement of taxes for the first half of the year has not yet been made.

The board also discussed the employment of a dumpmaster at Patterson Field, but action was deferred pending a conference with city council regarding the salary fund. Three applications for the place have been filed.

SOLONS FROWN ON PROPOSAL FOR ANOTHER COURT CLERK

Ordinance Pigeon-holed After Title is Read.

HIT CITY JOB

Vote, 4 to 2, Against Civil Service Board Secretaryship.

Apparently opposed to the creation of additional officers, the city council last night killed two ordinances—one providing for the appointment of a deputy clerk of the municipal court and another the establishment of the secretaryship of the civil service commission.

Decisive action was taken on the municipal court proposed by the solons who buried a motion to consider it under an avalanche of noes after A. Earl Edwards, acting council clerk, had read the title of the measure. Hughes and Farrall supported the ordinance for the civil service clerkship, while Goodballet, Heddleston, Poole and Herrington opposed it. Councilman Hayes was absent.

Solon Hughes, in speaking on the civil service clerkship, said that Mayor Ralph C. Benedum had expressed himself in favor of it on the ground that in most cities of the state boards had a non-member clerk.

There was no discussion on the court clerkship ordinance which gave the judge the power of appointment.

Claybourne Avenue Dispute.

Greater part of the session was taken up by discussion of the Claybourne avenue dispute which has been before council for the past 11 months. Both sides were represented. Members of council who visited the street prior to the meeting spoke of conditions which fail to permit egress to homes.

Following a one-hour debate, it was moved by Farrall that action be deferred for two weeks to enable council to determine what material should be used on the improvement of Fourth street. Service-Safety Director Moore said that in the event bids for this street and St. Clair avenue do not exceed estimates, he believed enough money would be left out of a proposed $20,000 bond issue to carry out the work.

D. F. Nellis, representing property owners on the south side of Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, presented a petition, signed by five taxpayers, asking that the street be improved. It was brought out in discussion that the lone property owner on the opposite side of the street, with an equal frontage, was opposed

Executive Goes Into Little Parlor Where he Gazes in Dry-eyed Sorrow at Body, While Mrs. Coolidge Stands on Other Side, Tears Welling Her Eyes—Services Arranged.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—President Coolidge arrived here at his snowbound homestead this morning just 12 hours too late to see his aged father, Col. John C. Coolidge.

Tomorrow, at 2 o'clock, he will follow his father to the little hillside burial ground where, just 20 months ago, he buried his younger son, Calvin, Jr.

The rushed journey from Washington by special train, automobile and bob sled had been in vain, for at midnight, while still aboard the train, he had been apprised of his father's death.

The president arrived here to find virtually all funeral arrangements completed. In fact, it was the colonel himself, anticipating death, who had engaged the undertaker, the minister, the grave digger, and who had erected a stone in the family plot lacking only the exact date of death. The neighbors even had received personal invitations from the lips of the dying man to be present at the home across the road for the final service.

This fatalistic calm surprised neither the president nor the natives of this little cross road hamlet.

FOR SECOND TIME IN 20 MONTHS, DEATH BECKONS IN COOLIDGE FAMILY

In Summer of 1924, President Was Called to His Ancestral Home to Bury His Youngest Son.

ABOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—For the second time in 20 months, President Coolidge went to his ancestral home at Plymouth this morning to bury a loved one.

In the summer of 1924, just before his greatest national triumph, it was his younger son, Calvin, Jr., today it was his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, who died late last night while the president was racing by train to his bedside.

The presidential special arrived at Woodstock, Vermont, at 6:40 a. m. The president and Mrs. Coolidge immediately went to a room engaged for them in the Woodstock Inn. Later they emerged and went to the dining room for breakfast.

Receives Fateful News at Midnight.

The distance from Woodstock to Plymouth is about 16 miles. It will be covered by the party from the White House partly by automobile and partly by sleigh.

The road from Woodstock to Plymouth was shut off from other traffic in order to hasten the presidential's arrival at the Coolidge home.

President Coolidge's race by special train from Washington was in vain. At midnight a telegram from his secretary in Washington, Everett Sanders, advised him that his father has passed away quietly at 10:41 p. m., his least hope of seeing his father, desperately ill for the last two weks, alive had gone.

Party of Mourners.

The party of mourners from the White House was small. Accompanying the president only were Mrs. Coolidge, Attorney General Sargent and Major General J. F. Coupal, White House physician and John Coolidge, son of the president, who boarded the train at Northampton, Mass., in the small hours of the morning.

The fateful message containing news of his father's death was delivered to President Coolidge at 11:50 p. m., when the special paused at Bridgeport, Conn. The secret service operative, James Haley, who accepted the telegram, knocked at the door of the president's compartment, expecting to awaken him. Instead he found him fully clothed and apparently awaiting just such word, probably as the result of some premonition.

CHIEFTAIN'S SON FLAGS PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO VERMONT

Called From Bed in Rooming House at Amherst by Landlady, he is Informed of Grandfather's Death.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 19.—John Coolidge, son of the president, an Amherst student, by telephone early today, succeeded in flagging the presidential special enroute to Vermont.

Arriving here by trolley car after being informed of his grandfather's death by a Springfield newspaper, young Coolidge discovered that the Washington special was not scheduled to stop here.

John got the train dispatcher at Springfield on the telephone and made arrangements to have the train halt here. From midnight to 8 a. m. the student waited on the station platform until the special arrived and took him aboard.

Called from bed in his rooming house at Amherst by his landlady, Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey, John Coolidge went to the telephone and was informed of the passing of his grandfather by a Springfield newspaperman.

"That's too bad, but thank you very much," said John.

Arriving here by trolley car he discovered that the presidential special would not stop. By telephone, John learned that the train would stop at Springfield and he made all arrangements with the Boston and Maine railroad train dispatcher there.

For three hours, in the cold of the early morning, young John paced the Northampton station railroad platform, entering the station now and then to get warm. The special arrived at 3 a. m., and took John aboard.

Maharajah's Kitchens Form Principal Item Of Nation's Budget

BOMBAY — Some light on the yearly budget of Indian mahahajahs is furnished by an official state department of Alwar, who, for the first time, has revealed the items of the Alwar budget to the outside world.

Of a total revenue of approximately $1,200,000, the privy purse of the maharajah of the state amounts to nearly $600,000. Of this sum practically $80,000 represents the cost of the state automobiles, while another $60,000 is expended upon their garage and upkeep.

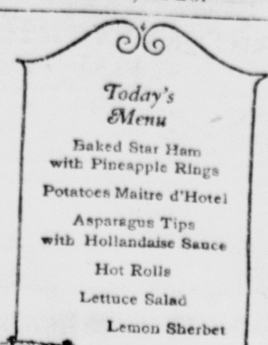

Education accounts for the magnificent sum of about $30,000, or $10,000 less than the cost of the upkeep of the maharajah's kitchens.

The present maharajah is one of the committee of the chamber of princes of India, and claims to be descended from the old historical rulers of India—the Pandavas.

Death from epidemics since the World war has been practically nil.

"She Has Style"—

If that is said of you, you may cheerfully forego any other praise.

It is so easy to be pretty. Almost anyone with a little cleverness can be called good looking. But style makes one woman stand out above all others in a large gathering—it makes her distinctive.

The secret of style is correct corseting—the poise and carriage that you get from Binner girdles and corsets.

You know how exasperating it is to get what you think is just the right girdle—only to find after you have worn it a few times that it has lost its own lines and taken on yours. And yet how many girdles and corsets do that very thing.

Binner girdles never lose their shape, no matter how long you wear them. They are skillfully made of fine materials and until the very end of their long life they will retain the graceful lines they had when you first put them on.

The model pictured above is a girdle. We have many other styles—one for every figure. Let our Corsetiere fit you with the one you should have.

Priced from $4.50 to $9.75.

New! Cock-Croft Silk Dress Patterns

For the woman who is ever lured by something different we are showing these new Cock-Croft silk dress patterns.

Included with pattern is a chart which explains how to make these dresses in various sizes.

The "Rose Lattice" pattern comes in bluette, tan and navy.

"Cluny" pattern in bluette, navy and tan and red on black.

Smartest women are wearing the "Pompadour" pattern. In this distinguished model for older women are the long sleeves of the prevailing mode. "Pompadour" is in navy, black, tan, cocoa and red. Each pattern priced at $12.75.

ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE RUINED AERIAL PHOTO BUSINESS IN EAST

NEW YORK, March 15.—The recent anthracite coal strike, which made it necessary for New York to rescind ordinances against use of soft coal, has completely ruined the aerial photograph business.

A year ago, when a lump of soft coal couldn't be found on Manhattan with a search warrant, aerial photographers were able to make pictures easily from 8,000 to 10,000 feet in the air. A photographer who tried it the other day, flew within 1,000 feet of the ground before he could pick out such a conspicuous landmark as the Woolworth building, and the pictures he took looked like they had been snapped in a tunnel.

No man can take knowledge from you. It is the pass-key to the door of success. It is life's greatest treasure.

Knowledge may be acquired by the simple effort of using the free information service that The Review-Tribune maintains for the pleasure and profit of its readers. The scope of this bureau is national and international, and no subject is too elementary or too broad to enlist the personal attention of a specialist.

Send your query with two cents in stamps for return postage to Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The East Liverpool Review - Tribune Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Prayer In Chicago

Several hundred Chicago people ary trying to abolish 30 roadhouses of dubious repute in southern suburbs. The novel thing about their effort is the method. They are invoking neither law nor publicity, but only prayer.

To the amazement of scoffers, they have been meeting with considerable success. Ten days after the campaign began, three of the resorts had quit, and in token of victory prayer meetings were being held in their abandoned parlors instead of the accustomed revelry.

Day and night the siege continues. "We all have faith," says one of the leaders, a reformed gambling house keeper. Faith is mighty, and "the prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

Secular help, too, is not to be despised. Business men, be it observed, are helping in the crusade, mingling with their moral satisfaction the thrifty assurance that decency is better for business than indecency.

Coffee at Fires

The Allentown branch of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's association has just started something which should win them national renown and the high compliment of imitation. These fire-fighting women are going to equip and operate several motorized coffee wagons which will always follow the engine and the hook-and-ladder truck and will supply hot coffee to the struggling firemen.

The coffee wagon may not always be needed. Trailing the fire department to answer a false alarm or when putting out a small fire on a hot summer day, the coffee service may appear foolish and useless. But used with judgment, it should be a very fine thing. Everyone knows the bracing effect of coffee taken during such a protracted session of hard work as firemen must go through at big conflagrations.

Religious Rivalry

President Lowell, of Harvard, explains poor attendance at churches by decrease in hostility among various sects.

"Man is a combative animal," he says, "and the recent increase in co-operation between different denominations has caused many church followers to lose interest."

He suggests that rivalry among churches is just as necessary to keep up church membership as intercollegiate football games to bring students to college.

Some of us, however, are not quite so sure about the ultimate value of college athletics nowadays, even when their advertising value is granted. And surely religion, whose professed ideal has always been peace and harmony among men, is in an unfortunate situation if it can thrive only on church warfare.

A Few More Booms Wanted

Some Britishers who have witnessed the working of the Florida boom at first hand are said to be advocating the start of similar booms in some of the Dominions to attract settlers. Canada, Australia and South Africa could use a lot of enterprising British immigrants, and Great Britain could spare them.

The present slackness in British migration seems to result from the absence of the pioneer spirit in the British Isles and the selection insisted on by the Dominions. The latter require that prospective immigrants be thoroughly inspected and approved before they leave the home land.

A boom, it is thought, would awaken the energetic, pioneer spirit and act as a spur to many groups that have contemplated going overseas but haven't quite worked themselves up to taking the necessary steps.

Booms started the development of many sections of our great west and a boom has worked wonders for Florida. Maybe our British admirers are right in wanting to stir up a few booms for themselves.

Speculative Education

Wellesley college has a class in financial organization, and that class has been studying finance in practice as well as theory. It has a supply of stage money to operate with. Recently the girl students have been using that money to speculate in stocks.

As a result of applying their book learning to the stock exchange, they are said to have turned a fund of $25,000 into $38,000 within a short period.

All this, of course, is merely make-believe speculation. But such success may encourage the young ladies to take whatever honest-to-goodness money they can get hold of and try playing the game in earnest. The method is just about the same in either case. And there would be more interest in "playing the market" with hard cash.

It will jar some of the old-timers to learn that stock speculation can be learned at college. Hard-boiled financiers of the antique school may begin to suspect that, after all, education pays.

Wait till those girls get into Wall Street! Something it going to happen to the street—or to them.

"Elevating the feet stimulates the brain," says a physician; and so another crude American habit is justified.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 19—Thoughts while strolling: The first lute of spring—a hurdy gurdy. Charles K. After-the-Ball Harris, the song writer. What ever became of Billie (Single) Clifford? The constant parade. Beggars at the heels of life. And riches to be diced away in a night.

A church bell peels. And an auto back-fires. The clatter of lunch rooms where millions eat half a dish, smoke a cigarette and run. A coiffure parlor heralds: "The Beatrice Lillie Bob." Another block-long electric sign. Proclaiming the virtues of lingerie.

Skyscraper skeletons of steel. And the incessant rat-atat-tat of hammers. Achmed Abdullah, a musical comedy monocled crown prince in real life. Who wins French academy author prizes. And smokes a Turkish pipe on a Greenwich Village fire escape.

Stodgy women in sables. Glossy, pointed nails concealing square finger ends. Pudgy men trying to hide organic instincts behind fashionable clothes. The dead docility of the jaded. Always seeking new diversions and new friends.

George W. Coxey, the newsboy who made a fortune selling insurance. The smiling cop at 50th and 5th avenue. And the one at 58th street the taxi drivers call "Old Ironsides." But he's popular with those pedestrians who have survived.

The flappers are wearing the cake eaters' coon-skin coats. A white puppy dragging a big Persian cat around a dog shop window. And the sidewalk is jammed. The tall thin man with the russet face who has made a fortune selling toy balloons at county fairs.

What becomes of waffle shops in the summer time? Probably go where flies go in the winter. A little shop girl cries: "I got a raise, thank heavens!" Gaily bedecked ladies facing the blunt truth that New York is not thrilling them at all.

In the very heart of the Great White Way, where there is more electric light to the square inch than any place in the world, there is a man who makes a living decorating candles. He gilds and paints them for a concern that disposes of them to tea rooms and studio apartments.

I have a memory of my last view of the late Frank Munsey, who died several months ago. It was around midnight, and he was chatting with a clerk in the lobby of the hotel where I live. He had been to the play and was in full evening dress. Mr. Munsey struck me as being one of the loneliest men in New York. He was a bachelor and strictly temperate, and outside of his vast business affairs he held little interest. I have often seen him unbend, through sheer loneliness I believe, to talk to elevator boys and barbers.

At times a few highly esteemed readers become annoyed with me. I share their annoyance. Their special complaint seems to be if I do not like New York why the Carrie Nation don't I bow out. The reason is chiefly because outside of Paris there is no city where I would rather live. It is my daily chore to picture it as I see it—the high lights and shadows. Broadway is one of the most interesting streets in the universe. It always offers another side to every picture. For instance! Two stage stars married notorious men—each with a prison record. Broadway smiled its cynical smile. Yet both are supremely happy, and those who know say the marriages will endure.

Very few theatrical attractions save musical comedy have orchestras these days, and those that do seem to offer musicians who have merely come in to get out of the cold and set up their instruments to practise awhile. In the Gay Nineties the opening overture was an event.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Another War Memorial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—Washington is at last to have a memorial to those of her sons who contributed their share to making the world safe for democracy. While it may seem that perhaps the national capital has been a little slow in erecting such a memorial it is believed that the one proposed will prove that the waiting has been well worth while.

Memorials to soldiers and sailors in the World war have sprang up all over the country. Some of the tiniest villages have them. They have taken many forms and it is quite true that in some cases the sentiment is more to be admired than the art or architecture.

Washington has realized that any memorial it would erect must conform to the general plan of making this one of the most beautiful cities in the world. To that end it could not afford hastily to put up a monument which had not been given careful consideration by experts.

The design finall selected is the work of Frederick H. Brooke, who is particularly well qualified for such a commission since he is a graduate of L'Ecole Beaux Arts, with special training in classic architecture. Associated with Mr. Brooks are two well known Washington architects, Nathan Wyeth and Horace W. Peaslee, the former also a graduate of L'Ecole Beaux Arts.

In 1924 congress appointed a memorial commission of prominent Washington citizens and it is this commission which has had charge of all arrangements. Under its directions a campaign for popular subscriptions will be inaugurated during the first week in April. The amount to be raised is $200,000 and it is hoped that subscriptions will be sent in from those in all walks of life, in view of the fact that those serving during the war were not confined to one class.

A Temple of White Marble.

The memorial is in the form of a Doric temple of white marble. The Fine Arts Commission has chosen for its site a grove of beautiful trees, a short distance due south of the center of the reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial. In such surroundings the beauty of the temple will be greatly enhanced. During the summer the temple will be used for the band concerts which are held by the military bands. Heretofore these concerts in Potomac Park have been held in the old wooden band stand at the east end of the polo grounds.

It is proposed that upon the marble ceiling of the dome of the temple will be inscribed the names of the 258 sons of the National Capital who in serving their country made the supreme sacrifice. Within the cornerstone are to rest the names of all the district boys who served.

A model of the memorial has been placed on display in the window of a large department store and this shows to the minutest detail just how it will look when it is completed. Even the surroundings with miniature trees and marble benches are included. In the dome have been inscribed in miniature more than 200 names.

This war memorial will have distinguished neighbors. It is close to the incomparable Lincoln Memorial and not far from the beautiful Pan-American Union building. In the springtime it will vie with the much-talked up and many-times-written-about and photographed Japanese cherry blossoms for the attention of the thousands of visitors who journey to Washington from all parts of the country at the time when it is expected that these blossoms will be at their height.

The memorial commission says that every effort has been made to attain in the plans for the memorial a combination of beauty and dignity which shall at once be appropriate, useful

Cleveland Rail Men Ask Thompson to Run for Governor

Four Thousand Workers Petition Colonel to Seek Republican Nomination at August Primary.

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Four thousand railroad workers, living in Cleveland and vicinity, last night petitioned Col. Carmi A. Thompson to announce himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

The petition was presented by a delegation made up of Charles H. Kibler, Sam D. Foster, P. R. Reed, Mrs. E. M. Reed, Martin Hart and W. A. Fleet. The chairman of the delegation, Sam D. Foster, voiced, on behalf of the petitioners their "disappointment" with the administration of Governor Donahey and declared their confidence in the ability of Col. Thompson to solve the problems confornting the state government. Foster said to Thompson:

"It is our mission and honor to present to you a petition signed by four thousand men and women in various branches of the steam railroad industry, who earnestly request you to announce yourself as a candidate for the governorship of Ohio.

"The signers of this petition all are men and women who earn their livelihood in their occupations as engineers, firemen, shopmen, conductors, switchmen, brakemen and clerks.

"These men and women have authorized us, as their spokesmen, to say to you that they are moved to make this request because they recognize the important influence with the administration of the state's affairs has, not only on the condition of their own industry, but on all industries.

"Further, they recognize that their own well-being, and the welfare of their wives and children—their ability to earn a living wage and maintain such a standard of living as becomes American citizens—are affected in no small degree by the wisdom, the judgment and the force with which the state government is guided, expressed and executed.

"They have looked to the Capitol at Columbus for several years with hope, but disappointment. They have expected, but in vain, relief from the burden of taxation which fall so oppressive on the wage-earner and home-owner; more efficient organization of the executive branches of the government, such as that charged with the building and maintaining of highways; more intelligent and sympathetic direction of our state institutional program for dealing with unfortunates, such as defective children and the insane. They have expected, but without realization, to see the materialization of a program which would restore the agricultural industry of the state, and thus reduce the cost of living in the cities and towns. And they have expected, but without seeing anything acomplished, that steps would be taken to enable the fining industry of the state to enjoy its former prosperity, thus providing employment for thousands and saving from the pangs of starvation.

"These are only some of the problems which the signers of this petition see as confronting the state government. They believe that the only hope for their solution rests in the election to the governorship of a man qualified by training, experience and achievement to meet them squarely, grapple with them understandingly, and settle them vigorously. They believe, too, that if such a man were a gubernatorial nominee, the people not only would support him but would assure him of a majority in the legislative branch of the government which would enable him to carry his program to satisfactory completion.

"And, further, they have instructed us to say to you, Carmi Thompson that they, after full consideration and deliberation, believe that you are this man—and that they urge you to offer your name as a candidate for the greatest trust and responsibility this state can bestow."

Col. Thompson was plaintly surprised by presentation of the petition. He expressed his apprectation of the confidence in him which the petitioners displayed, and told the delegation that he regarded it as a rich reward for the many years he has engaged in public service.

"The question of presenting myself for the governorship at the coming primary," he said, "has been given my most serious consideration; and in making a decision, I assure you, I am certain to be influenced in no small degree by your petition."

In China the day is divided into 12 two-hour periods.

PRETTY BANK CLERK FACES FORGERY TRIAL

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, Midland, on Trial at Beaver.

JURY IS CHOSEN

Woman is Charged With Embezzlement of $5,200.

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, pretty 25-year old bookkeeper at the Midland Savings & Trust company, was placed on trial before Judge William McConnell in circuit court at Beaver, Pa., yesterday upon charges of forgery and embezzlement.

Practically all of the forenoon session was occupied in the selection of a jury. The jury, consisting of seven men and five women, is as follows:

Harry D. Woods, Pulaski township; Fred Whittle, Pulaski township; George Hays, Aliquippa; Lila McElhaney, Brighton township; John Baxter, North Sewickley township; Sarah Martin, Ambridge; Mabel Corfield, Rochester; Jennie Riddings, West Mayfield; Mae Howarth, Beaver Falls; Bernice Kerr, South Heights; John L. Love, Freedom and Luella M. Simpson, Woodlawn.

Mrs. Camwell, who came to Beaver about a year ago from Butler, is alleged to have embezzled approximately $5,200 of the Midland school savings funds. She was arrested following an examination of the bank's books by officials of the state banking department.

The defendant, who is at liberty under $5,000 bond, posted by her father, was neatly attired when she appeared in court yesterday.

Three witnesses were examined during the afternoon, among them Fred Price, secretary-treasurer of the Midland Saving and Trust company. Court adjourned at 4 o'clock, resuming at 9 o'clock this morning.

Judging from the number of witnesses who have been called, the case will not go to the jury before early next week. Court will adjourn at noon tomorrow.

Mrs. Camwell has been indicted on 222 counts in connection with forgery and embezzlement charges. She is represented by Attorneys Holt and Nelson. The case is being prosecuted by District Attorney Moorehead and his assistant, Ralph Smith, formerly of East Liverpool.

Council Meeting

to the project. Action was deferred for two weeks pending a conference between members of the street committee and representatives of the traction company which is expected to share in the expense of the improvement.

Recommends New Water Line.

Director Moore who told council that he made an investigation following the recent fire in Observation street, recommended the laying of approximately 1,300 feet of water pipe, which he said would prove ample in fighting future fires in the West End. He was instructed to proceed with the work. The estimated cost of the improvement is $4,000.

Resolution was passed on first reading reducing the assessment on the property of Louise P. Rigot from $844.80 to $266.67. A motion to suspend the rules for final passage was blocked by Farrall who voted in the negative.

Ordinance was passed authorizing the service-safety director to advertise for bids for the purchase of a baffle to be used in the water-works department.

Resolutions authorizing legal publication covering assessments for sanitary sewers in Burford, Smithfield and Springdale streets and for the resurfacing of East Second street were passed under suspension of rules.

Delegation from Riley avenue asked that some action to be taken on the construction of a sanitary sewer the contract for which was awarded last year. Residents of Perry avenue, Drain and Morton streets urged improvement of these thoroughfares.

Protests Received.

Committee from Pleasant Heights reported having secured a garage to house the fire equipment which will be sent to that district from the Klondike station. They announced that an option had been taken on a lot for a permanent building.

Solon Herrington, member of the street committee, reported having investigated the Western Union Telegraph company sign on West Sixth street which brought a protest at the last meeting from Mrs. Rachael Loomis. He said that the support of the sign was weak but saw no remedy other than to have it braced.

Communication was read from the Cartwright Bros. Pottery company protesting against the obstruction of the road at their plant by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. It was referred to the street committee.

Resolution adopted at a recent meeting of mouldmakers' local No. 22, protesting against the use of the market house money for any other purpose but that originally intended was read and ordered filed.

Councilman Farrall reported that the investigation of paving materials for proposed street improvements had not been completed and asked that more time be granted.

Petition was read from property holders of Sunnyside avenue and Glenn street requesting street improvements. The matter was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Nearly 193,000,000 cigars, an increase of 17,000,000 over 1924, were brought from the Philippines to the United States last year.

Cancer Was Cause Of Death of Col. John C. Coolidge

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Official cause of the death of Col. John C. Coolidge, 80-year-old father of the president, was announced here today by Dr. A. M. Cram, attending physician, as "carcinoma" or cancer.

The secondary and contributing cause was myocarditis, a disease of the heart muscles.

Plans for Funeral.

It is typical of the Green Mountains.

The Rev. John White, of Sherburn, will conduct tomorrow's services in the same small parlor where, under dramatic circumstances, the old colonel had administered the oath of office to his son on that fate August night of 1923.

Present only will be the immediate family—the president, Mrs. Coolidge, their son, John, and Aunt Grace, and Uncle John Wilder—and the town folk of Plymouth. Officialdom will be represented only by the presence of Captain Adolphus Andrews, naval aide to the president, and by the cordon of National Guardsmen about the house and guarding the cross roads.

From the house, the little group of mourners will follow the coffin, loaded on a "pung," or a flat sled, to the burial plot on the place between the graves of his two wives and Abbie, dead sister of the president. Snow was being cleared away today in preparation for the arduous task of breaking the frozen ground for the grave.

President Takes Loss Stoically.

Meanwhile, the president took the loss of his father stoically. He had known death was impending, for, daily during the past two weeks, he had received reports almost hourly of the slow ebb of life. He had rushed from Washington when word finally came that the end was near, but he had thought he could reach Plymouth in time to see his father alive once more. In fact, he had even insisted that "father will live to see bare ground."

Upon arriving, Mr. Coolidge, accompanied only by Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, entered the old homestead, where, for an hour, they remained with the body and assisted in the final arrangements.

Then they returned to the Woodstock Inn, 16 miles distant, there to remain until tomorrow.

Hazards Accompanying Trip.

The dash from Washington was accompanied by hazards not experienced by any president of modern times. At 6:30 o'clock this morning the special train reached Woodstock. The thermometer registered zero; snow was banked to a height of five and six feet on either side of the specially cut roadway.

Following breakfast and a brief rest, the presidential party undertook the negotiation of the remaining 16 miles of the journey over the mountains. The first stage was comparatively easy, for huge snow plows had cut a way through as far as Bridge water Corners. From there on, however, the trip had to be made by bobsleigh for the narrow one-way road was still too snow-covered to permit use of an automobile.

Since his ascendancy to the White House, President Coolidge's visits have been tinged with sorrow. Five times, he has returned to the scenes of his youth; four times it has been because of illness or death. First, his son died and was brought here for burial. Then, last summer, the strain of his 80 years told suddenly on Colonel Coolidge and the executive made a mad race from the summer White House at Swampscott, feeling he would not see his father alive. But the aged man survived—temporarily. Later in the summer he again made a special trip from Swampscott to see the colonel.

Today, he came to buy him.

Gazes at Father's Remains.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Behind a spanking pair of bay horses in a double seated sleigh, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, came home today to attend the funeral of his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, who died here last night.

As he stepped from the sleigh a long streamer of purple ribbon surmounted by a green wreath bespoke the tragedy of the Coolidge home.

The president motored from Woodstock to Bridgewater, where, because of the poor condition of the roads, the party transferred to horse-drawn sleighs. The president and his party came as far as Woodstock by special train which was racing to Plymouth in hopes of getting here before death called Col. Coolidge.

The president arrived at 10:10 this morning. He went straight into the little parlor where he gazed in dry-eyed sorrow at what remained of his old father.

Mrs. Coolidge stood on the other side, tears welling into her eyes. They only stayed in the room a few moments, then going into the sitting room, where they talked with Dr. Albert Cram about the colonel's last hours.

Soldiers Shut Off Travel.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 19.—Speeding here to the home of his father whose spirit wafted from the spent body while his train was still a hundred miles away, President Calvin Coolidge's special train left White River junction at 6:05 a. m., on the last leg of the journey.

From White River they went 12 miles on the Woodstock railroad ending up at the Woodstock Inn, 13 miles from the family homestead. The train arrived at Woodstock shortly before 7 o'clock.

When news of the president's party reaching White River junction reached here, 18 members of Company B, of the 172nd Infantry who pulled into Plymouth after midnight, marched down the Bridgewater road and shut off all travel. The 18 were joined on the Woodstock end of the road by a company of national guardsmen from that town.

The news of the close proximity of the president did not stir up very much excitement here and no great number of persons planned to greet him.

Although the colonel died at 10:41 p. m., the president was not informed of his father's death until 11:50, when his train stopper at Bridgeport, Conn.

While the president was racing to the bedside, Col. Coolidge sank into a coma which he never emerged and died at 10:41 p. m. With him was Dr. Albert M. Cram, who had remained at his side all day after reaching the house in answer to an emergency call at 6:30 a. m.

During the day he continued to fail and at about 5 o'clock it was certain he could not last long.

His aged housekeeper, Miss Aurora Pierce, who had been with him for 20 years, had retired for the night when she was awakened and told that death was near.

It was deemed best that she be kept out of the death chamber and when the end came only the doctor, Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse, and Angus Macaulay, deputy sheriff bodyguard, were present.

Old Friends at Bedside.

About an hour and a half before the end, Miss Florence Cilley, proprietress of the general store which the colonel sold to her, and her ward, Miss Viola Hickory, entered the house to take a last look at the dying man. They were the last outside the household to see him. Both stayed but a few minutes and even to their uninitiated eyes it was apparent that he was near death.

After the end came Dr. Cram made several calls, notifying the White House and sending for the undertaker, Willard D. Cofot, of Woodstock. The latter arrived about 12:30 and spent the remainder of the night laying out the remains.

The chief topic about the little country store where practically the entire population is assembled today, is the effect the death of Col. Coolidge will have upon the president.

In the white cottage that was dearer to him than the White House in Washington where he could have had a home, the old dominating figure of this town is still and cold. He lies in state, but his will that carried him over all obstacles when all else failed is still felt.

Arranges His Own Funeral.

The burial arrangements are being carried out as he ordered and paid for before the mists fell about him. Willard D. Cofot, funeral director, his bill paid in full in advance, prepared the body for the visit of the president.

It lies in that part of the house where Calvin Coolidge, in the small hours of a chilly morning, by the light of an old fashioned kerosene lamp subscribed to the oath of president as administered to him from the lips of his own father.

Everything in the room today will remind President Coolidge of that night. The furniture, the pictures, the old family Bible, even the kerosene lamp are there. The justice of peace who swore him in is there. He is no longer erect, but a prone figure, marble brow, on a bed of satin in a plain casket. He is the only part of that ceremony of months ago that is not natural now.

Only Flag at Half Staff.

The little grave on the hillside where all other Coolidges lie slumbering the sleep of eternity will be opened tomorrow to receive the Colonel. In this his will again works. He it was who called Azro Johnston, town selectman, to his bedside a few days before he lost consciousness, and paid him to prepare the ground to receive his remains.

Johnson will tomorrow morning swing a heavy sledge on the hard crust after the snow is cleared off, to break the heavy crust.

The only flag in town today is at half staff on the little school house that looks down on the colonel's home from an eminence a little way to the west. The staff from which this bunting hangs in mourning at one time raised its shaft over the Vermont state house where Colonel Coolidge was very well known for his two terms in the general assembly and one in the senate.

Colonel John Coolidge, "The grand old man of the Vermont hills," was born in Plymouth, Vt., on March 31, 1845, the son of a family which prided itself on ancestors who came here in the early seventeenth century, made fame for themselves in the new world, and fought for freedom in the revolution. He was educated in the local public schools and at the Black River academy, Ludlow, which also claims the president as an alumnus.

When 23 years of age, Colonel Coolidge opened a general store at Plymouth Notch, which also served as a dwelling for the colonel and his family. It was here that Calvin Coolidge was born, and here he took the oath of president of the United States.

Colonel Coolidge was twice married. His first wife, Victoria Josephine Moore, bore two children; Calvin on July 4, 1872, and Abbie Grace on April, 15, 1875. The first Mrs. Coolidge died in 1885, when only thirty-nine. Her daughter followed her five years later, at the age of fifteen. In 1891, Colonel Coolidge married Curie A. Brown, also a native of Plymouth. She died in 1920.

Colonel Coolidge engaged in active business for only 10 years. He settled down to the life of a farmer at the age of 33, tilling the farm land adjoining the little farm cottage in which the thirty-first president of the United States first saw the light of day.

The decline of Colonel Coolidge's health began about a year ago. Recurrent heart blocs caused temporary paralysis. Upon the insistence of his son, he went to Boston and was treated at the Massachusetts General hospital. His illness became acute in the early summer, and, last June, he was afflicted with a severe prostatic ailment which necessitated an operation. The president raced from the summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., by special train and auto to the bedside of his stricken father.

Colonel Coolidge lay upon an improvised operating table in the sitting room in which he had administered the oath of office to his famous son.

Colonel Coolidge rallied, but never regained his former health and vigor.

Dawes Drafts Condolences.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes, ranking officer of the government in the Capital today, issued a statement of condolence on the death of the president's father, Col. John C. Coolidge.

"No one could know Colonel Coolidge without being impressed by his character—a character as rugged and stable as the Vermont mountains among which he lived. He was a personality in himself. Even after his son was chosen as the nation's chief I imagine that his neighbors at Plymouth more often though of the president as the son of Col. Coolidge than they did of Col. Coolidge as the father of a president.

"Colonel Coolidge died in the knowledge of the honorable success of his only son—a knowledge which is the greatest boon that could come to a father in this life, and which can decorate with happiness even the long and painful days when the shadow of death itself are deepening. The nation has taken a pride in him and suffers a loss in his death. Its people mourn with his bereaved son and family."

Pope Cables Condolences.

County Steam Shovel Ready for Work on Youngstown Highway

A county-owned steam shovel, which has been working in the north part of the county, will be brought here during the early part of next week to begin grading the city's section of the East Liverpool - Youngstown highway.

This improvement will be in accordance with an agreement made between the city and the county, whereby the county will furnish the steam shovel and men to operate it if the city will provide the teams.

The steam shovel will first straighten the course of Carpenter's run, cutting a channel along the bank of the Y. & O. railroad. It will then be brought to the road where excavation work will be started. Council recently voted a $6,000 bond issue to meet the city's share of the cost of the proposed improvement.

ness is mental activity of a useful kind. Money can't interfere with that, but poverty can.

TWO learned Turkish scholars, Mehmed Ahkiff, and the Mohammedan priest, Kutchuk Hamdi, will translate the Koran from the original Arabic into every-day Turkish, enabling every-day Turks to read the sacred book. Whether that will strengthen the hold of Mohammed on the public mind is a question. Mystery helps religion.

To tell a modern Turk how Mohammed rode up to heaven on his white horse, saw angels with eyes many miles apart, etc., may strike the modern Turk as improbable—that is, if the modern Turk is permitted to think for himself on such subjects.

EIGHTY-FIVE per cent increase in our import duty will keep Italian straw, for making hats, out of the United States and take work from 100,000 in Tuscany. Unless it can be shown that this country makes a great deal by this tariff increase, it seems useless cruelty to ruin an industry that employs 100,000 workers in a friendly nation.

FIND GIRL'S BODY IN BROOK

Murder Mystery is Uncovered at Dedham, Mass.

DEDHAM, Mass., March 19. — The body of a 20-year-old girl with a large boulder weighing down her head, which rested in a brook, was found today near the Stony Brook reservation.

Near the spot where the body was discovered were blood spots in the soil.

The head and shoulders of the girl were covered with a cloth coat and the clothing was in disorder.

Police believe the girl had been slain after being attacked and that the boulder, which weighed 200 pounds, had been rolled on her to crush her head. Apparently, police said, the girl's head had been held in the water of the brook until life was gone, but the murderer made death certain by using the boulder.

BLAST WRECKS HOUSE, SOFT DRINK PARLOR

BLAZE FOLLOWS

Detectives and Fire Wardens Investigate Cause.

CLEVELAND, March 19.—City detectives and fire wardens today were investigating the cause of the tremendous blast that late last night literally blew to pieces the house and soft drink parlor at 1301 East Fifty-fourth street, rocking the entire East Side, breaking windows for blocks in the vicinity and slightly injuring eight persons.

Police and firemen, after subduing the flames that swept the wreckage, searched the ruins for hours early today before they ascertained there had been no loss of life.

It was a miracle, police said, that no one was killed. Two-year-old Dorothy, one of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sudolnik, owners of the soft drink parlor, was blown from her mother's lap into the street.

Those in the building when the explosion took place were:

Mr. and Mrs. Sudolnik and their children, Jennie, 13; Frank, 11; Eleanor, 9; Tony, 5, and Dorothy, 2. All were more or less bruised.

Jack Meyer, 38, a customer, who was in the soft drink parlor when the blast occurred, received three broken ribs.

Police said today it had not been determined whether the explosion was due to gas leakage, sewer gas, a dynamite bomb or something else.

pistol, shot both women dead and fled from the ranch in his automobile.

While the ranch was in an uproar, Goins drove back to Stockton and went to the law office of McNoble & Arndt. He inquired for McNoble, and when told that he was in San Francisco, strode out of the office and drove to McNoble's home.

When Mrs. McNoble came to the door, Goins began talking irrationally about his affairs. After Mrs. McNoble resented his presence, Goins again pulled his pistol and killed her.

Speeding to Galt, 29 miles away, Goins prepared to add to his victims. At the conclusion of his trip there three more persons were dead. They were Mr. and Mrs. Marengo and their daughter, Mrs. Dutra.

Car Plunges Down Embankment.

Goins then headed for Placer county, where he once lived, in an effort to escape to the mountainous country. Officers picked up his trail and started in prsuit. Just before dusk last night Goins was seen driving at a furious rate over the mountainous roads near here by Captain E. C. Slatterback, state traffic officer, and W. S. Biggs, Eldorado county supervisor. As the "mad slayer" roared by, he was recognized by Biggs who commanded him to halt. When he failed to do so, both fired at him and then gave chase.

Cornered, Goins, while his machine was traveling at a terrific rate, fired a bullet through his own brain and his car leaped from the road and plunged down an embankment.

RULING ISSUED ON QUARANTINE

With an outbreak of smallpox just reported from Moundsville, another at Lumberport in Harrison county and a recently investigated one at Middlebourne which disclosed 35 active cases and more exposures as well as daily reports of scattered cases all over the state, the question has reached the state department of health as to whether or not a county or city is required by law to provide necessary supplies for persons under quarantine who are not indigent. In seeking legal information regarding this, Dr. W. T. Henshaw, state health commissioner, has the following statement from Howard B. Lee, attorney general:

"I find no statutory authority in the laws of this state imposing upon city or county authorities the duty of providing the necessary living supplies for persons under quarantine, and in the absence of authority am of the opinion that such authorities would not be liable for such expenses, except it be under and by the virtue of the law relating to the care of the poor."

"If vaccination was considered seriously by each individual," Dr. Henshaw declares, "there would be no necessity for quarantine."

REPORT ON FIRE LOSS IN COUNTY

Hancock county's fire loss in February was $32,900, an increase of $321,150 over the same month in 1925, it is shown by a report of the state fire marshal department.

There were seven fires reported and in five of these the loss was entire and in two partial. Insurance of $77,500 was carried on the property.

Six dwellings and a store were attacked by the flames. Two fires were of unknown and one of suspicious origin, one was caused by ignition of woodwork from a stove and three caught from adjoining premises.

For the eight months of the fiscal year ending February 28, the loss in Hancock county from 15 fires was $132,265, an increase of $124,515, or 1606 per cent, over the corresponding period preceding.

DAMAGE VERDICT TO BE APPEALED

The petit jury at New Cumberland Tuesday brought in a verdict in favor of the defendants in the case of Abe Sachs vs. the Weirton Improvement company and the county courts for the amount of $1,800 for damages done to the cellar of his store by water seeping in.

The jury was out 12 minutes, dismissing the case against the county courts and deciding in favor of the improvement company. Mr. Sachs says he will appeal the case to supreme court. His plea for a new trial was overruled.

Ramsey & Wilkins, attorneys of Wellsburg, represented the plaintiff. The defendants were represented by Ingram, Hoffman & Levy.

Eskimo Must Pay His Alimony With Animals

Anchorage, Alaska.—One bull moose, properly butchered and delivered; ten mink skins, dressed and stretched; five gray fox pelts or one silver pelt, together with 100 full-grown salmon delivered in season is the alimony Charlie Big Eyes must pay his squaw.

This was the decision handed down in divorce proceedings by tribesmen who heard the case against the native of Ninilchik, on lower Cook inlet.

The judges decided that the foregoing constituted a fair share of the increment accruing to a well-regulated native family, whenever the husband drank up 50 mink skins at $5 per pint, the prevailing price for the brand of volcano juice fabricated by the manufacturers on the inlet.

The defendant in the case was charged with having terminated his drinking marathon by pitching his squaw into the creek when she chided him.

No More Salt Pork In British Sailor's Mess, New Ruling

LONDON.—Salt pork, the traditional ration in the British Navy, is no longer to form part of the sailor's menu. The naval authorities announce that it has been removed from the scale of rations for ships on all stations.

Canned beef and tinned vegetables are to be used as an alternative.

Another change in British naval customs that has been authorized is the substitution of cups and saucers for the old regulation basins.

Special Round Trip Trolley Rates For 'Student Prince'

Early Curtain for Matinee and Evening Performances at Ceramic Theatre on March 24-25.

Surpassing in size, grandeur and magnificence any theatrical spectacle of a similar nature ever staged in East Liverpool, "The Student Prince," brilliant musical success of the Shuberts, which will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday, with a special matinee on Thursday afternoon, at the Ceramic theatre, can unquestionably be regarded as one of the most important events of the present season.

The producers, as well as the management of the Ceramic theatre, are authority for the assertion that the company to be seen here is, in every respect—size and quality of cast, chorus, scenic investiture and symphony orchestra—the equal of those now playing in New York, Chicago, Boston, and which played Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other metropolitan centers.

"The Student Prince" boasts a company of 108, including a male chorus of 60 voices.

Out-of-town patrons are to be furnished special round trip rates on Thursday and Friday, applying on tickets bought at Steubenville, Toronto, Midland and Beaver. The Steubenville rate will be 85 cents; Toronto, 50 cents; Midland, 30 cents, and Beaver, 75 cents. The rates will not apply on cash fare paid the conductor.

Mail orders are being received at the theatre now for the three performances. The seat sale at the box office will begin Monday, March 22, at 9 a. m.

The evening performance will start at 8:15 and the curtain will go up on Thursday's matinee at 2:15.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After Eating Distress.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meals or over eat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

Fletcher Makes Pennant Bid With Best Club In Four Years

Central A-B, Garfield Win Tourney Contests

Central B defeated Pleasant Heights, 18 to 10; Garfield triumphed over Neville, 20 to 8, and Central A turned back Lincoln, 23 to 14, in grade school basketball tourney games yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

Central B this afternoon will play Sixth Street A, Garfield will tangle with Central A and McKinley will clash with Washington.

The semi-finals in the boys' division will go on at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon and the finals in both the girls' and the boys' divisions will be held tomorrow night, beginning at 7:30.

Then Central B-Pleasant Heights clash of yesterday's bill was the best, in point of performance, of the three games. Both squads played a brand of basketball that would done credit to older teams. The hilltop lads were fully on a par with the Centrals in passing and general team play but their marksmanship fell short.

Central led at the end of the quarter, 8 to 2, and increased it to 18 to 6 at the half. The race continued throughout the third period, but in the windup stanza, Pleasant Heights outscored the downtown aggregation.

Pierson, Mullen and Kittridge were the Central scoring stars, while Pepper, Myler and Jeanguenat were the leading performers for the losers.

The second tilt of the day brought the two East End teams together, Neville and Garfield. Neville really outpassed Garfield but were off in their shooting. Garfield led by a score of 1 to 0 at the end of the first quarter and found the basket for eight more points in the second period. Neville finally got to the basket in the final period, but their efforts came too late. Harris, Dotta and Jackson were the Garfield stars. The playing of Wagner, Morgan and Stanley was outstanding for Neville.

Holding a decided advantage in height and weight CentralA won out over Lincoln in the final quarter of their game. The small but plucky Lincoln youngsters outplayed their opponents for three periods only to go down to defeat after McConville was forced to leave the court on account of an injury. Lincoln led by a 5-0 tally at the quarter and continued to hold the edge during the following quarter. The standing at the half was 7-3.

In the third quarter, Lincoln tacked on three more points right off the reel and it began to look like a decisive Lincoln victory. At this juncture, however, Center McConville was forced to leave the game and the Lincoln five, greatly weakened as a result, dropped back. Carmen, Hall and Alther enacted the leading roles for the winners. McConville, of Lincoln, was the outstanding star of the game, while McKee and Stroble performed well also for the losers.

BERLENBACH'S TEST TONIGHT

If He Wins, He'll go After Tunney and Wills.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Quietly—and, therefore, not without an element of inferred sincerity—the word went out today that Paul Berlenback either will be the leading heavyweight contender within four months or, like some of the guests at Sing Sing, just a man without an immediate future. They say he will gamble everything on the idea that he is to be the modern man of destiny.

Harry Wills? He may have Dempsey bluffed but Berlenbach thinks the colored man will be found with an ace "kicker" in a show down of cold hands. Gene Tunney? Paul will fight Gene the day after tomorrow and intimates that he might find the delay a bit irksome at that.

These statements are not the writers. They are the unchallenged property of Ben Stern, said to be the real manager of Berlenbach, the men who makes his matches. He would make two of them this summer with Tunney and Wills, according to plans aired in private to Jimmy De Forest.

This fact is significant. When a boxing man neglects to raise his voice in making a statement, his remarks usually are worthy of belief. He doesn't speak loudly because he is awed in the presence of truth.

Would Foil Rivals.

The campaign will get a dress rehearsal at the Garden tonight when Berlenbach steps out with Johnny Risko, the man with the nonbreakable windshield. They have been playing billiards off his cowcatcher for some time and if he every finds out about it, John will be real sore. John is awfully hard on the hands.

This, in fact, is the basis of tonight's plot, the real reason for the match. Berlenbach plans to stop Risko and take the play away from Tunney and Jack Delaney, both of whom spent ten rounds on the problem without visible solution.

Paul will have to do 175 pounds, by the commission's mandate, to anything Risko may care to bring into the ring with him but this fact is of no consequence. Berlenbach weighs less than 180, anyhow.

They say he will waste no time on Risko's jowl, as did Tunney and Delaney, but will begin sending left hooks to John's anteroom with the opening bell. The boys allege they noted a fleeing expression of annoyance across John's honest countenance when Delaney deposited a few in the side pocket, so the impression has gained credence that this is the young man's "groove."

If that proves to be the case, Paul is likely to discontinue the gent with great firmness, in which case the Tunney shot will not be so far away. Funny thing; has anyone noticed how all of the boys are trying to avoid Tunney? Neither have I.

Favor Berlenbach

NEW YORK, March 19.—Paul Berlenbach, light heavyweight champion, was today quoted a 2 to 1 favorite over Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, for their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Odds of 5 to 1 were quoted on the possibility of a knockout.

The population of the Sahara desert now is nearly 500,000.

SAMMY MANDELL NOW U. S. CITIZEN

CHICAGO, March 19.—Sammy Mandell has enjoyed many proud moments as hero of the prize ring, but today was the proudest of his life. Sammy said so himself.

Why? Sammy is now a full-fledged citizen of the United States, he received his final papers late yesterday.

Unknown to many of his admirers, the "Rockford Flash" has been an alien. He was born in Albania but came to America from Italy where his parents moved when he was a kid.

To celebrate the occasion, Eddie Kane, his manager, today signed a contract to handle Shuffle Callahan, the lad who created a sensation last week by knocking out Morrie Schlaifer.

TRAINING CAMP CHATTER

Tigers Prime for Toronto.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19. — The ball game today between two clubs from the roster of the Detroit Tigers will be the final of its kind of the spring training season. Tomorrow the Tigers will take on the Toronto club in a series of games. It is reported that Bob Fothergill will play center field this season in place of Ty Cobb in a great many games. The Tigers and Maple Leafs start on an exhibition tour tomorrow.

Mayor Walker Baseball Fan.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19. —The finale of the Yankee-Braves series today will be witnessed by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, who is in Florida on a vacation.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 19. — McGraw's travelers again were back at their southern headquarters today, slightly the worse for their 9 to 3 beating by the Cleveland Indians in general and Tris Speaker in particular. Spoke drove in five runs and cut off three more by fine catches. One of his drives broke a finger on Hugh McQuillan's pitching hand. Nehf also has a broken finger, while Frisch was unable to play owing to a sore throat.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19.—Reports of another and final effort to obtain Joe Boley, shortstop of the Baltimore Orioles, were in circulation ground the headquarters of the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Joe Kelley, veteran scout, is said to have been dispatched to Punta Gordo, the Orioles' camp, to try to close the deal.

TAMPA, March 19.—The Senators' squad was three men lighter today, Frank McGee, Ray Joyce and "Buck" Jones having been farmed to Birmingham. The Nats looked very bad yesterday against the Phillies, losing, 13 to 2.

POWERS BOOK TWO MORE TILTS

Play at Salineville Tonight; Lisbon Five Here Tuesday.

Games with Salineville, the Lisbon Roamers and possibly one or two other teams will keep Power class passers busy until Thursday, April 1, when they clash with the Stag club, of Muskingum college, in the feature tilt of the fag end of the season.

The Powers are slated to play at Salineville tonight, and on next Tuesday night they will mix with the Lisbon quint on the Methodist Episcopal church court here.

Manager Dewey Geren is considering plans to stage the game with the college lads at Wellsville. Clifford Orr, of Wellsville, member of the regular Muskingum college five this year, will be playing with the Stags, as well as two other stars of the team.

M. P.'S DEFEAT BOULEVARDS

Cop Sunday School Cage Clash in Final Half.

Methodist Protestant tossers dropped the Park Boulevard lads, 30 to 20, last night on the Y. M. C. A. court in a Sunday school cage league elimination contest.

The parks gave the M. P. five one of its stiffest battles of the campaign. The first half found both teams racing at a nose and nose clip, the M. P.'s holding the advantage of a 12 to 11 tally. In the last two periods the Parks eased up a little and their rivals drew ahead.

Lutherans will play the Methodists and the Christians will take on the Baptists in games on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A.

Eight Strong Hurlers Boost Phils' Strength

By Bill Brandt.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19.—Arthur Fletcher, famous Giant shortstop of pre-war annals, faces his fourth year as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals with the best team ever assembled under his management. At this writing, George Harper, .354 hitter last year and jackrabbit centerfielder, has not signed his contract, nor has Butch Henline, last year's captain.

These hold-outs, however, must be gathered into the fold to make this year's Phillies loom more powerfully than last year's aggregation, which finished in a tie with Brooklyn for sixth place. The sensational improvement of the pitching staff promises the Phils a first division berth this year, provided Harper is in the lineup and the run making machinery is up to 1925 standards.

The trade of Jimmy Ring to the Giants secured for the Phillies Jack Bentley and Wayland Dean, pitchers.

At present, Fletcher can count on classy pitching from no less than eight men. No Philadelphia Nationals team has been so fortunate in pitching strength since the late Pat Moran gave up the management in 1918.

Carlson, Mitchell Veterans.

The veterans of Fletcher's list are Harold Carlson and Clarence Mitchell, the only southpaw spitballer in the big leagues. With last year's sixth place team, Carlson won 13 and lost 14. Mitchell's figures were 10 and 17.

Second to Carlson is Frank Ulrich, sensational youngster, from Waterbury.

The other three young stars are Claude Willoughby, Art Decatur and Jack Knight.

Knight, drafted from Houston, Tex as league, looks good.

Willoughby came up last fall from Class D Mississippi Valley league, and beat Cincinnati 5 to 1 in his first start.

Wayland Dean is expected to show some of the form which made him the pick of the minor leagues when he pitched for Louisville in 1923.

Ernie Maun, who won 17 games and lost 10 for Indianapolis last year, is the most impressive of the minor league men.

Only two notable changes in personnel are to be recorded. Bentley, as first baseman, is an improvement over last year's pair, Haw and Fonseca, both in hitting and fielding. Bubber Jonnard, drafted from Wichita Falls of the Texas league, is an experienced, smart and hustling catcher to work with Jimmie Wilson, Lew Wendell and perhaps Henline.

Barney Friberg, purchased from the Cubs, will play second and Sand is booked for short. Will Huber, a first year man last season, has been the fielding and hitting sensation of the training.

The outfield Fletcher expects to use includes the veterans Harper, Williams, Mokan and Nixon, together with Fred Leach, who batted .312 in 65 games last season.

Team for team, the Phils this year are the best the Quaker City has seen since the war, particularly in the pitching staff.

RANKING SCOUT HAS 61 MEDALS

Louisiana Boy Has Won All but Three of the Merit Badges.

Lake Charles, La.—Against his father's will, Edwin La Bauve went into the boy scouts five years ago. Today he is the ranking boy scout of the world, having received more of the organization's honors than any other of the 750,000 young gentlemen enlisted in that body. Edwin is pretty proud of himself, quite naturally, but his once dissenting parent is downright jubilant.

What Edwin has actually done is to win 61 of the possible 64 merit badges. No scout now a member of the organization has done this. Last year there was a boy in Terre Haute, Ind., who also won 61 of the merit badges, but he has since passed the age limit and is no longer an active scout.

Is Well Liked.

Everybody in Lake Charles and through much of the surrounding country knows and likes Edwin. He is seventeen years old, 5 feet 2½ inches tall and weighs 137 pounds.

Five years in the organization, he still does his act of service every day, still is the courteous, helpful, thoughtful chap that he planned to be when he took the scout oath. Harry Woosley, scout executive at Lake Charles, says that Edwin spends much time with other boys, assisting them in scout work and helping them to win merit badges of their own. He has a good business head on him, too. Woosley says that last summer Edwin was in charge of the camp canteen and that he made more money than any of his predecessors.

In the boy scout course, as has been mentioned, there are 64 subjects. In order for a boy to obtain a merit badge on any of these he must, after the required application, stand examination before a qualified board.

The three subjects Edwin has not taken are archery, architecture and radio. But he is studying for these and hopes to wear all the merit badges before long.

The winning of 61 merit badges does not come easily. Edwin has worked and studied virtually night and day since 1920, has plugged through the extensive curriculum of boy scoutry much harder than he would have been obliged to plug through college.

The knowledge crammed into this young fellow's head is little short of astounding. He knows the rudiments of electricity, knows first aid both for humans and animals, knows what birds should be killed and what preserved, knows how to sketch, how to make blueprints, how to survey, knows how to cook, knows about trees and plants, knows the fundamentals of music, of aviation, of welding, understands photography, seamanship, masonry—and many, many other things his scout work has taught him.

Takes Care of Himself.

The precise subjects on which Edwin has received badges are firemanship, blacksmithing, cycling, first aid, life saving, swimming, handicraft, civics, camping, pathfinding athletics, cooking, personal health, carpentry, first aid to animals, safety first, machinery, pioneering, public health, stalking, bird study, automobiling, craftwork in wood, plumbing, poultry, printing, mining, horsemanship, hiking, masonry, scholarship, astronomy, botany, dairying, forestry, signaling, marksmanship, beekeeping, agriculture, painting, photography, leather working, physical development, art, electricity, surveying, interpreting, sculpture, music, bugling, business aviation, seamanship, taxidermy, insect life, foundry practice, angling, textiles, conservation, gardening and chemistry. Think of that!

Edwin takes excellent care of himself. He eats food that is best for him, among other cautions. He does not eat candy. He can lift a 145-pound barrel eight times above his head, can swim like a fish and can hike faster and further than the champion "knight of the road." His proudest possession is his boy scout shirt, the one on which the 61 merit badges are sewed. And if you ask him he will tell you what each badge means and how it was earned.

He was born in Lake Charles. His mother is dead, which makes him more the apple of his father's eye than would ordinarily be the case. The father was born in Louisiana, but all of Edwin's grandparents were born in France, his mother's parents coming to Canada and settling in Ontario, later moving to Louisiana and his father's parents coming straight to New Liberia, La.

Edwin's father operates a prosperous machine shop in Lake Charles and it is this business that he wants to turn over to his accomplished son.

Owner, After 14 Years, Reclaims His Timepiece

Mineral Wells, Texas.—J. E. Johnson, a jeweler, recently delivered to its owner a watch that had been left in the shop for repairs 14 years ago.

"Have you fixed Doctor Mitchell's watch?" asked a customer.

"Doctor Mitchell's watch? Why let's see. H-m, just when did you leave it to be repaired?"

The customer explained that he had not left it, but that Doctor Mitchell of Bowie, Texas, left it 14 years ago, before he moved from Palo Pinto, Texas. The watch had been repaired and was ready for delivery.

Russian Commercial Bank Negotiates New Loan in America

MOSCOW.—The All-Russian Commercial Bank announces that its representatives, I. Baru and I. Vitze, have successfully negotiated a credit of 5,000,000 roubles in the United States.

The bank withholds the source of the credit, which will be used for import and export operations for Soviet co-operatives, and especially for co operations with Germany, France and the Baltic states.

In China there are more than 14,000 motor vehicles, an increase of nearly one-third within a year in that war-ridden country.

Millions of school children throughout the country are now being safeguarded against Goiter by the use of Mulkey's Iodine Salt in the home. Health authorities approve MULKEY'S, because this is the original Iodine Salt sold by grocers and contains the prescribed amount of iodine to prevent Goiter. You will take no chances on the quality, color or flavor of iodine salt if you insist upon MULKEY'S. Do not be confused by any other brand with similar name or package.

Mulkey's Iodine Salt is pure, wholesome, free-running salt for general use in all families especially where there are children.

and unique. It is believed that the temple will adequately meet these requirements.

In its lovely natural setting, white and graceful, with the exquisite simplicity of old Greece, it will stand through the years as the expression of a city's pride in the men who fought in its behalf. From the grove where it will stand vistas will stretch to the Lincoln Memorial, the Reflecting Basin, the Tidal Basin and the Arlington shores of Virginia. And, used for military concerts, as is planned, each concert will be a memorial service for the deeds of the living whom we honor and the dead whose memories we cherish.

Washington's Show Place.

Potomac Park is more and more coming to be the playground and meeting place of the local populace as well as a show place for visitors. Not so long ago a memorial on the proposed site of the new one would have necessitated a special trip and no doubt there would have been loud groans from the home folks when called upon to take Cousin Ella from Grand Rapids to view it.

Nowadays it is quite customary for many government employes to utilize their lunch periods to get some fresh air and according take walks around the Reflecting Pool. Others who are fortunate enough to own cars may take a short spin around the Speedway. After office hours during the summer months a great many play golf on the courses provided in Potomac Park and others use the excellent tennis courts, while the polo field furnishes spectacular pictures that are decidedly "moving."

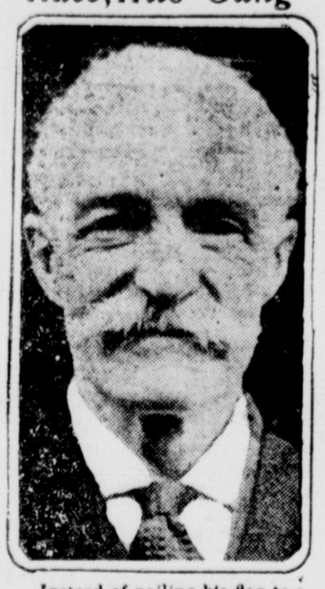

While, of course, the actual distance from uptown to the Tidal Basin or the Speedway is the same, it does not seem as great as it did 10 or 15 years ago. The mere fact that there are buildings all the way down Seventeenth street now makes the distance seem less. There are now several large apartments within a couple of blocks of the Lincoln Memorial and many people living in these are glad of the opportunity to take walks by the river on warm summer evenings.

The new war memorial will really be right in the heart of that part of Washington which is used largely for recreation purposes, and there will be in daily contact with a large proportion of the people.

It is pointed out that this is to be in no way a national memorial. The memorial bridge which is to span the Potomac from the Lincoln Memorial to Arlington, the home of Robert E. Lee, is to speak a nation's remembrance for her defenders, but this classic Greek temple is to show the gratitude of the District of Columbia for its own heroes.

Instead of nailing his flag to a bone-dry platform, as expected, Gov. P. nomination are Rep. W. S. Vare and Sen. George Wharton Pepper.

EVE'S TWO LOVERS

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

THE STORY UP TO DATE:

EVE MACLAURIE, young, beautiful, thrifty, passionately satisfied with life, loved both her employer, JOHN INGATE, thirty, president of John Ingate's Sons, Inc., one of the largest firms in Central City, and CLAY WALES, an employe of the Ingate concern. She rejected John to marry Clay because she believed that the latter, weak, irresponsible, fiercely jealous, needed her more. Once they were wed, however, she had her doubts about the wisdom of her choice.

On their honeymoon in Chicago, they enjoyed great privileges at the Mohawk country club through the courtesy of John Ingate. There, while playing tennis, they met a MISS JOHNSTONE, violet-eyed, mysterious, and her escort, REGGIE WHITE, who were immediately very friendly. Eve and Clay had no reason to suspect that the pair were blackmailers, utilizing Miss Johnstone's powers of fascination to entrap wealthy men.

The following day, at their hotel, they ran into John Ingate, who, he explained, had been called to the city on business unexpectedly. Although Eve, with Miss Johnstone in mind, perhaps, had decided she didn't want to go back to the country club, when John Ingate proposed a trip out there to the two of them, they went along.

Now to on with the story:

TWENTY-FIVE.

When John Ingate was away from Central City he enjoyed himself much more than his mother and sister, or his business associates, would have suspected. In Central City he was something of a figure of importance, with a position to keep and a dignity to preserve. But in New York or Chicago, or in other cities to which the demands of business took him, he was a person of no importance, and he enjoyed himself as a man does when he rids himself of tight shoes and rasping collar. He spent money for pleasure with careless abandon; ate in the lively restaurants; saw the peppery shows; gambled and drank, with moderation, it can be said, at the club. Such things are unseemly in Central City in a business leader and churchgoer, and at home John Ingate observed the code. In the big city he was a different man.

The car in which he drovee Clay and Eve Wales to the country club was a roadster he had rented from a drive-it-yourself system, and thee three of them were in close quarters in the one seat, Eve sat in the center. Clay was annoyed because, in order to leave the clutch and brake free, his wife's skirt was pulled back so that her legs were revealeed nearly to the knee. She was his scowl but missintrepreted it as a silent protest against the trip to the country. She smiled, thinking of Miss Johnstone.

But for the presence of John, she would have reminded her husband of the violet-eyed one. "I don't think you're so awfully angry because we are going,' she wanted to say banteringly.

"We've certainly missed you at the office," John Ingate remarked.

"Isn't Ethel getting along all right? And Mary?" Eve didn't like to think of Mary Sullivan as taking her place in John Ingate's office. Mary was such a designing girl. Why, no doubt she already was scheming to get John to pay her attentions. Ethel Sopley was the person she had suggested to John as her successor, but she suspected that Ethel's homeliness would make John prefer Mary Sullivan.

"Miss Sullivan has been taking my dication," was the non-committal response.

Eve smiled with the satisfaction that is felt by persons whose judgment is confirmed.

"—— But she doesn't seem to be getting the hang of it," he went on. "I have to tell her things over and over. Take, for instance, matters like shipments through the customs. South America, to her, is one of the 48 states. I've already had a call-down from the customs department because of her laxity with details in the reports."

"Oh, she'll get it in time," said Eve, feeling a deep glow of satisfaction. It is glorious to be missed.

"I HOPE so."

They got into a discussion of pure-business affairs in which Clay had no part. He sat staring blankly through the windshield, trying to rid himself of the foolish suspicion that John Ingate had came to Chicago especially to see Eve. He remembered now the enthusiasm in John Ingate's voice when, at the hotel, he launched this party: "Were you going to the club? Let me give you a boost. You can wander along the flowered paths alone. I'll just give you a boost." Clay doubted it. He would invite them to lunch or something and continue to monopolize Eve. . . . Well, two could play that game. There would be the woman with violet eyes. What was her name? Oh, yes, Miss Johnstone. He recalled her now as the unconventionally clad figure, cigaret in hand, disturbing expression about the eyes with whom he had been momentarily left alone by Reggie White. There was a queer egg—White.

"Clay is a marvelous tennis player; you two must play. . . ." Mention of his name by Eve took Clay's mind off Miss Johnstone.

"I'm not much of a performer myself. Give me a handicap or something?" he said, looking around at Clay.

"I was just lucky yesterday,' Eve's husband responded. "I might be miserable today. I don't think you need a handicap to beat me."

"I don't want to drag you two into anything," said Ingate. "It's your honeymoon, not mine." He could not restrain himself from glancing furtively into Eve's eyes as he said this.

She anticipated him and cast them down, mirroring an expression in the windshield that Clay saw. "I think Eve is glad to see someone from home," he replied, impulsively. "Husbands get boresome in no time."

Eve frowned at the suggestion of an emphasis her husband placed on "someone." She laughed without wanting to: "I've already learned that when husbands aree bored they accuse their wives of being bored."

John Ingate, wondering, kept his eyes on the road. Something in Clay's tone, a suggestion conveyed by Eve's manner implied that this honeymoon was not all bliss. Was it because he had injected himself into it? After placing the note at the office the evening before he had regretted it and returned to retrieve it, only to find it gone. Why had he invited them to go to the club with him? Why hadn't he had enough sense to avoid them? He was angry with himself for having them here. Eve had cast him aside to marry this weakling, why didn't he forget her and retire within the shell from which he had emerged reluctantly to confess his love? But here they weere at the club, and he must make the best of matters. He would, he decided, part from them as soon as possible.

A pair of violet eyes, ensconsed behind the lilac bushes that draped the low veranda of the clubhouse, saw the car give up its passengers. They surveyed Clay Wales critically. Miss Johnstone was not sure that he was worth her time. Might be a real estate salesman, or laundryman. Still, they had money, too. Well Reggie was going to find out about his financial rating. Nice looking wife, she decided. Just the kind that a man would pay a lot of money to keep from knowing about a foolish bit of backsliding.

Does Clay Wales, piqued by John Ingate's attention to Eve, fall into Miss Johnstone's net? See the next instalment of this story.

All men over sixty years old have been discharged from the departments of the chief constructor, chief engineer and superintendents and electrical engineer at Davenport dockyard in Ireland.

The costliest real estate lot in the world is at No. 1 Wall street, New York city, opposite Trinity church. It fronts 29.10 feet on Broadway and 39.10 feet on Wall street.

Morning, Afternoon And Evening Showing Of Fairbanks Film

Douglas Fairbanks put in three months of intensive training for stunts that he does in his latest picture, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," at the American theatre. He learned to handle an Australian stock whip; how to dance the Spanish fandange; how to handle a cape as professional bull fighters do in Spain, and he also added a new style of swordsmanship to his already vast knowledge of fencing.

In "Don Q, Son of Zorro," Douglas Fairbanks uses the same trusty sword that he kissed and stuck high in the wall in the last scene of "The Mark of Zorro." The weapon was found in the set where Doug had thrust it at the finish of that picture.

In another column appears a coupon, which, if presented at the box office of the American theatre Saturday morning or afternoon, will admit any school child for 10 cents.

A special morning performance of "Don Q" will be given at 10 o'clock, but in order to make it possible for all children to see this picture, the coupon will be good for any performance Saturday starting before 5 p. m.

Ended in a Day

Colds, if neglected, may lead to disaster. Last year they led to 150,000 deaths. They usually lead to days of discomfort.

It is folly to neglect them. A cold can be ended in 24 hours in the right way.

That right way is HILL'S. It stops the cold, checks the fever, opens the bowels, ends the headache. Then tones the entire system.

HILL'S is so quick and efficient that millions have come to adopt it. It is so superior that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

Take it as soon as the cold begins. The sooner you take it, the quicker the results. You can end a cold, and all the results of the cold, in 24 hours with HILL'S. And without any ill results.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

W. K. Kellogg

Tired in the morning—tired all day

IN THE morning when vitality should be at its peak, she was listless, tired, aching in head and heart. She was young, yet she was defeated. The cold, vile hand of constipation was dragging her down, destroying her health, thieving her beauty and charm. Women! be rid of constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the sure, safe, pleasant way.

When Kellogg's ALL-BRAN travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. It can absorb and carry moisture through the intestinal tract and stimulate it to natural, healthy action. ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food.

Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream or with fresh or preserved fruit; sprinkle over other cereals or cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or make into the many recipes given on every package. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is a 100% bran product.

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it. Buy a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN today.

U. S. HAS SPENT 11 BILLIONS FOR INTEREST

Charges on Public Debt Reach Enormous Sum.

WAR IS BLAMED

In But Two Years Was Government Out of Hole.

WASHINGTON—The United States Government has spent more than $11,000,000,000 for the use of other people's money since 1771, according to figures obtained at the Treasury today.

Interest charges on the public debt, which reached a maximum of $1,055,088,000 in 1923, will be approximately $730,000,000 this year. They will decline progressively as the public debt is retired.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon holds that among the most important objectives in the government's economy campaign is the orderly retirement of the debt to save enormous interests costs.

The World War was responsible for more than half of the interest paid out in the history of the government. About one half of the total interest fell due between 1920 and 1926.

Two Years No Interest.

In but two years, 1836 and 1837, was the government out of the hole, no interest having been charged up during that period. Interest average about $5,000,000 annually from 1771 to 1866 when it jumped to $133,000,000 as a result of Civil War costs. The last annual interest payment before the World War amounted to $22,000,000.

In the campaign to reduce Government costs the treasury hopes to cut the public debt about $5,000,000,000 prior to 1930. That reduction would represent a saving in interest of about $200,000,000 a year.

Approximately $6,182,000,000 of the outstanding public debt matures before November 1, 1930. It must be retired or refunded during that period. New issues at lower interest rates are expected to replace that part of the debt which cannot be retired.

The Government must meet maturities of about $1,408,725,000 in 1926. The principal portion is redeemable March 15 when the treasury will announce a new bond issue to take care of a portion of the maturities. Other blocks of bonds are due in June, September and December.

Investors Suffer Loss.

Careless American investors are losing nearly $1,000,000 annually as a result of failure to cash government securities valued at $11,680,000 upon which interest has ceased.

During the year ending March 1, the public debt was reduced $714,561,672, and $6,320,448,000 since the peak of indebtedness of over $26,000,000,000 August 31, 1919.

Carts have taken the place of railway cars for freight transportations between Peking and Tientsen because of the war in China.

AFRICA DONE WITH GAME TRAPPING; WANTS SILK STOCKINGS AND LINGERIE

NEW YORK—"Don't send us traps for man-eating tigers. Send silk stockings and dainty lingerie. Or tractors, something like that."

This is the advice of the union of South Africa to the exporters of the United States, through Eric H. Louw, union government trade commissioner in America.

The opening of the South Africa office in this country is expected to increase trade between the two continents, and to correct erroneous ideas, including the preposterous one "that lions and tigers are shot there, as frequently and as easily as cashiers and jewelers in New York."

"Big game hunting is past," Mr. Louw states, writing of South Africa in the March issue of the World Trade. "The women are garbed in the newest Parish fashions, and surprisingly enough due to the reverse seasons, they wear the coming styles before London or New York. There are four universities turning out doctors, lawyers, engineers and theologians."

The government owns 13,000 miles of railroad. The dining cars serve three table d'hote meals a day for $1.75. Bedding is 75 cents for one unbroken journey, regardless of the number of nights on the train.

NIGHT COUGHS Due to throat and bronchial irritations, are stopped by one swallow of Thoxine. Unlike cough syrups Thoxine goes direct to the internal cause and corrects it at once. No chloroform or harmful drugs. 35c, 60c and $1.00

Tobacco is Proving Too Expensive; Japs Cut Down Smoking

TOKYO.—Japan is smoking less these days not from choice but because tobacco is too expensive. The government tobacco monopoly bureau, increased the price of all cigars, cigarettes and tobacco 20 per cent last November for the purpose of increasing government revenues. The result has been to the contrary, however, and monopoly bureau officials report that consumption of tobacco has diminished from 25 to 40 per cent since the new prices became effective. Shopkeepers are compaining and it is reported that the monopoly bureau heads are considering a cut in the prices of all kinds of tobacco.

NEARER YOU LIVE TO MONTE CARLO HARDER IT IS TO DO YOUR GAMBLING

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, March 16.—The nearer one lives to the famous Casino the harder it is to get in. The Casino house is known as the Club of Strangers or "Le Cercle des Strangers." Foreigners only are allowed within its portals.

A resident of the Principality of Monaco is not given admittance. Nor are residents of the French provinces of the Var or the Alpes Maritimes permitted to risk their chance on the spinning wheel of fortune.

This ruling is given as the reason for so much entertaining on the part of residents of these two departments and the Principality. When a friend comes from Paris he may enter the Casino by showing his poll tax receipt. After having once been given a ticket of entrance the bearer may present himself the following day for entrance without renewing his identity.

In this way a visitor to one of the families of the region is the means of gaining entrance for one member of the family for days after, who otherwise would not be allowed within the Hall of Chance.

Any nationality other than French is compelled to show a passport before being allowed within the doors of the Casino.

NASH SALES HIT HIGH MARK

February, Shortest Month of Year Record Breaker.

February, the shortest month of the year, was the greatest month in the history of the Nash Motors company. Production of the Nash-built Ajax Six also reached a new high record during February. The total output of the Nash-Ajar plants during the 24 working days was 14,148 cars. Nash alone outstripped its previous record month, August 1925, by a margin of several hundred cars. E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company, pointed out that February was the eighteenth consecutive month Nash sales has surpassed the record set by corresponding months of the previous year—with the exception of November, 1925, when production was arbitrarily halted to bring the new "enclosed car" motor into manufacture.

"Despite the handicap of fewer working days," said Mr. McCarty, "both Nash and Ajax built and shipped more cars last month than in any previous month in our history. The plants are working overtime to meet the demand for Nash and Ajax cars which is sweeping the nation as never before. And our manufacturing efforts are again being vigorously increased to cope with the flood of orders pouring in from all sections of the country. In spite of the tremendous shipments to the dealer organization throughout February unfilled retail orders greatly exceed orders on file at this time a year ago. Among the cities that have a large number of unfilled retail orders notwithstanding are Chicago, with 708; New York, 601; Boston, 281; Philadelphia, 187; Cleveland, 156, and Detroit, 134.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yet, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tried, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing, flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask any live pharmacist anywhere.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Our Prescription Departments!

It might be surprising to you to know of the number of different items carried in our prescription departments and the number of different items is impressed on us very strongly at inventory time. We try to carry in our prescription departments everything that is liable to be called for but even then we get calls for items that we don't have and in those cases we do not fill the prescription but make an extreme effort to obtain the article prescribed at the earliest possible moment.

Mello-Glo.

Mello-Glo preparations for a good complexion are four in number: Powder, Rouge, Cream and Skintone. They are all different from the average preparations for the same purpose and you will be delighted with any of them especially the cream which is neither greasy nor is it a vanishing cream but a cream that nourishes the tissues, makes the pores smaller and acts as a powder base all at the same time.

Police and Fountain News!

A Palate and a Tummy got into a fight
'Cause the Palate wasn't training the Tummy right—
For the Tummy was hollerin for lotsa Ice Cream—
Needed a cooling or so 'twould seem!

So the two of 'em got a Big Malted Milk,
Which slid past the Palate slick as silk;
And "pleased" was no name for the way he felt,
And the Tummy smiled gaily under its belt.
Now they're friends!

What Do You Think!

A man high in finance, business and letters made the statement a few weeks ago before a prominent gathering that this country was in for ONE HUNDRED YEARS or PROSPERITY! His remarks were cheered by his audience!

Another man, equally prominent, in commenting on this statement, opined that NOTHING COULD BE MORE HARMFUL to this country than a hundred years of of UNINTERRUPTED prosperity! He backed up his criticism by figures and statistics showing that NULIMITED prosperity tended to make peoples extravagant, luxury loving, soft, immoral and irreligious! He had charts showing that these weaknesses of the human were decidedly more in evidence during prosperous times than in the "struggle" periods.

And THAT'S something to think about!

JOHN CARNAHAN.

Shorty Says:

Personally I'll pick on prosperity if you ask ME! I dote on extravagance and luxury especially — from what I've HEARD of it! I never felt that I could blush myself to death on acct. of bein rich! Certainly I'm curious to see how'd I act but there's one thing that will be the first thing I will do and that is to see how many good cigars Jack will give me for the alarm clock I bought in one of the Carnahan Stores. It's too darned efficient.

Take a Kodak With You!

The almanac says that Spring will soon be with us and stories of Spring robins are now in order. We are not weather prophets but it won't be long until we will be having lots of wonderful days when you can get out in the open with your Kodak. In buying films come to us for our films are fresh because we are direct Eastman dealers.

A Bore Perhaps —But Necesary!

Please pardon us for bringing up again this subject of Razor Blades! Trey're just as tireosme to us as they are to you, yet it would be an awful world if the Government would prohibit their manufacture! We carry EVERY sort—all for sale!

Are We Wrong About This?

You've noticed probably how we always suggest the QUART BRICK at 50c instead of the bulk Ice Cream. Rieck's Ice Cream is ALL good but we fell that the brick is a much easier package to manage for you customers, as the cream lands at home in neater shape. Saves US time too. That's ONE of the reasons for the low price, too. AT NO OTHER STORE can you buy Rieck's Ice Cream!

Ust to be the MEN —Years Ago!

During the period when Charles the 1st was struttin his stuff in silk britches, lace jabots and cuffs, I bet he'd sure be tickled pink to have had a counter like our TOILETRY Dept., to step up to and get all beautied up. Them was the days! For MEN. Can you imagine such a thing NOWdays—the silk britches, lace, etc.?

New War in Arabia Looms up Strongly As Chieftains Quarrel

JERUSALEM, March 15.—The Imam Yehia, ruler of Yemen, is backing ex-King Ali in his stand to regain the lost Hedjazian throne for the Hashemites, if reports from Arabia are true.

The Imam has an old score to settle with Sultan Ibn Saud, the Wahabi chieftain, who has created a desert empire in little under three years by sheer force of character. The Emir of the Idrissi, another powerful tribal leader in Arabia, will support Ibn Saud.

The suggestion that Italy is backing the Imam in his quarrel and that Great Britain will bolster up Ibn Saud has been officially denied by both governments, who declare that they have no concern in "a purely local trouble."

CALIFORNIAN SAILS FOR SCOTLAND TO SEARCH FOR SITE OF OLD TROY

SAN FRANCISCO — Page Ulysses, the rambling Greek of the classic past!

Tell him that a twentieth century mortal, a California yachtsman, is out for some of his fame.

The mortal is Dr. E. R. Parker, widely known San Francisco sportsman.

Determined to find the site of ancient Troy, scene of Ulysses' greatest exploits, Dr. Parker is today making preparations to embark soon on an astounding modern odyssey.

Dr. Parker proposes to sail his famous schooner Idalia to England and Scotland via the Panama Canal, and there search for the ruins of Troy.

The doctor is convinced that ancient Troy was situated near the mouth of one of the many Avons of England and that Ulysses' various adventures, shipwrecks and the like were along the coast of Caledonia, Scotland.

This is in direct contradiction to the theory held by many historians that Troy was situated on the shores of Asia Minor, in the eastern Mediterranean.

Parker will be accompanied by his close friends Captain George H. Cooper, of San Jose, a retired sea captain, and by photographers and historians.

The party will spend a few thousand dollars in a voyage of exploration which will follow the charted course supposedly taken by the old hero of the Greeks.

Dr. Parker gained considerable fame for himself when last summer he navigated his schooner, the Idalia, from San Francisco to Tahiti in the South Seas, and brought her back home again, the entire voyage being made by sail.

But this cruise through the summer sea will be as nothing compared to the adventure now in the offing.

Coco Cod provides healthy nourishment for young or old. Especially valuable for over-taxed mothers, convalescents, the anemic and undernourished. Quickly adds strength and vitality and puts those who drag through life in the pep class.

"Dustman's Knee" is Latest Addition to Ills of Mankind

LONDON — After housemaid's knee, writer's cramp, and the tennis elbow, comes "dustman's" knee.

"Dustman's" knee is the latest addition to the world's ills. It has been discovered by Dr. W. MacAdam Eccles, surgeon to a famous London hospital.

Describing how it arises Dr. Eccles says: "A dustman not infrequently has a short ladder by the side of his cart. He mounts two or three rungs of this, and then leans with the upper end of his shin-bone against one of the higher rungs, so as to get a purchase to enable him to tilt the dust receptacle into the cart." The constant pressure against the shin-bone results in a peculiar kind of ailment, according to Dr. Eccles.

NEED PERMIT TO ENJOY JOKE AT SYRACUSE

Quip Must Have Sanction Before Laugh is Legal.

UNIVERSITY RULE

Censorship Follows Issue of "Salt Shaker."

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Students at Syracuse University may not laugh at a joke unless the quip has the official sanction of the university administration.

At least, that is the interpretation of students to the latest move of Chancellor Charles W. Flint, in naming, the vice-chancellor, William P. Graham, as official censor.

The censorship was imposed following three issues of the only humorous publication at the university, the Salt Shaker. Jokes about prohibition, about co-eds and those at the expense of the religious executives, are notable by their absence in the latest issue of the Salt Shaker, which the chancellor has decreed shall be literary rather than humorous in the future.

The tale of alleged humorous publications at the Syracuse university has been a sad one. The Orange Peel, the best known of these publications was suspended and banished by the late chancellor, James R. Day. In the subsequent years students, time and again, petitioned the administration to sanction a humorous publication, but each request was met with blunt and short refusal.

Then the students decided to start the Salt Shaker without university official approval. It was tolerated until the chancellor decided to shake the Salt Shaker, and in this process C. Albro Newton, one of the editors, found himself an ex-editor and many members of the Salt Shaker staff were back at their studies. Miss Mary Landenberg, it was announced would thereafter be the sole editor.

She was called into conference with Chancellor Flint, who informed her that hereafter the vice-chancellor would wield the blue pencil and scissors on all copy which was intended for publication. Furthermore, Miss Landenberg was informed, the future trend of the Salt Shaker should be to developing appreciation of literature rather than humor.

AIRSHIP LINE ACROSS OCEAN CONTEMPLATED

PLAN BIG CRAFT

Ford, Rockefeller and Guggenheim Trustees Interested.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A group of American capitalists are contemplating the establishment of a trans-ocean dirigible line between the United States and Europe at "an early date," it was learned today.

The project, inspired by a few air enthusiasts, is so near realization, it was said, that definite types of ships, the frequency of runs and their scheduled time of flight are now being worked out.

Godfrey Lowell Cabot, president of the National Aeronautical association, is one of those behind the proposed air line to Europe.

"A fleet of dirigibles, two or three times as large as the Shenandoah, will be regularly flying back and forth between the United States and Europe, on scheduled time by 1925," declared Cabot.

"The undertaking is being studied by a group of the country's biggest capitalists."

Public Service Corporation.

Inquiry revealed that secret conferences, studies and negotiations on the project have been in progress for some time. Because of the magnitude of the undertaking names of the group planning the line, are being closely guarded. It is understood here, however, that Edsel Ford, John D. Rockefeller and the trustees of the Guggenheim aeronautical fund are interested.

According to Cabot the line would be in the nature of a public service corporation, with the passenger rates low enough to assure a steady stream of air traffic between the continents.

"The fear of danger rather than the cost has handicapped trans-oceanic dirigible travel thus far," Cabot said. "But the safety of these airships is daily becoming more and more secure. But for fear of injury or accident, in the past, there would have been a great number of persons who would have gone through the air to Europe for the sake of time-saving," Cabot added.

Carry 100 Passengers

Washington officials were greatly interested today in the visualization of linking the continents by aircraft—It is an old story here that of inventor's futuristic day dreams of gigantic dirigibles carrying hundreds of passengers back and forth between the United States and Europe, in roomy, luxurious cabins—of lighted airships passing one another in the night far out at sea—of the power and speed of such huge vessels pushing across the Atlantic in two days.

Making a commercial reality of those dreams is such a new story that the capital buzzed with interest when the ambitious program was partially revealed.

The air line to Europe this country will shortly see, Cabot predicted, would be comprised of a fleet of ships, each having about 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity.

"Such ships will comfortably carry 100 passengers," Cabot continued, "with more conveniences and room than a train of pullman cars. There wil be runways where the passengers can walk. There will be nicely appointed dining and lounging rooms and the sleeping compartments will be as comfortable as those on trains or ships.

Two-day Journey.

"The average passage from the United States to Europe will be between one and a half and two days. The return trip will be longer, due to the winds which prevail, taking perhaps between two and a half and three days.

"The structure of trans-oceanic liners will be better than the old dirigibles with the envelope better supported so that it will flutter less in the wind. Metal clad dirigibles, contemplated by the navy, will be watched with interest.

"In my opinion the immediate development of dirigibles will be toward shorter and fatter shapes. The placing of the control cabin within the hull will also greatly diminish the danger of injury by wind. "The control cabin of the Shenandoah dangled from the framework, and its ripping off partly caused its crash. The control cabin of the Los Angeles is set in the hull."

Cabot enthusiastically predicted that aviation will completely revolutionize transportation within the next 20 years.

All of His Ill Health Was Due to Catarrh

World's Tonic Cleaned Up the Membranes of His Head and Stomach—Now Back on the Job.

"I did not realize all my ill health for the last five years was due to nothing but Catarrh, said Mrs. W. W. Hatcher, 1007 Dresden St., in a recent talk with the World's Tonic druggist.

"I had taken many kinds of stomach medicines, thinking my trouble was due to indigestion, but after using two bottles of World's Tonic I feel entirely well for the first time in five years. I am now positive I had catarrh of the stomach and head. After eating gas formed in the stomach and bowels. At this time I would bloat so I had to unbutton my clothing, and at times was just able to breathe. I always had a burning sensation, and I often spit up handful of mucus. I could feel the mucus drip from my head into my throat. Each morning I was drowsy and my head felt dull and heavy. At times I was not able to breathe through my nostrils. My wife said I slept with my mouth open and my breathing was heavy. Constipation attacked me about four years ago and I had to use some kinds of pills or salts every few days, but it is different now. Most all those bad feelings are gone and I am better off from a health standpoint than in years. I am now on my job every day. World's Tonic has certainly done wonders for me."

Many cases of general ill health are due to nothing more or less than Catarrh. As this disease progresses the discharges from the inflammation in the throat become offensive and very poisonous. A great deal of this matter is swallowed especially during sleeping and enters the stomach. There follows all kinds of stomach disorders, general weakness and the health in general declines rapidly. A person so suffering needs World's Tonic, which is a complete systemic treatment for Catarrh, and banishes it from the system. Get it at Carnahand, or Brannan's at Wellsville and all other reliable drug stores.
